SHE WARN'T NO PISTOL- PACKIN' MAMA

For a moment at City Hall this morning employees thought it had happened again.
Miss Freddie Scherbaum, victim of a $965 holdup man Thursday, was back in the cashier's cage when a woman approached. She laid a heavy silver purse on the counter with a bang.
Miss Scherbaum threw her hands into the air with a scream. When order was restored and the woman had paid her water bill, Miss Scherbaum went home for the day.
(See Miss Scherbaum's account of the hold-up on Page 15.)

Thug's Jacket On Road

By PETER MURRAY
A hat and jacket, worn by the noon-hour bandit who took $965 from a City Hall cashier at gunpoint Thursday, gave police their only new lead today in the smoothly-executed robbery.
The clothing was found in the Lake Hill district at 12:30 p.m., about 10 minutes after the robbery.
Police were not notified of the discovery until five hours later, however.

On Roadway

A man, not identified by police, saw them lying on the roadway as he was driving back to work from his home nearby. He reported his find to Saanich police at 5 p.m., after learning of the robbery.
A woodsman's-type jacket, with beige squares and brown stripes, was found a short distance away from a grey fedora hat.

Chief Blackstock said they had been identified positively as the clothing worn by the bandit. Later investigation by city detectives disclosed that the hat and coat had been purchased in a city department store a short time before the hold-up.
"They were bought just for the job," Chief Blackstock said.

Thrown From Car

It was indicated the bandit threw the clothing from a car as he drove along Saanich Road after fleeing from City Hall.
It was not known Thursday whether the man, described as between 35 and 40, medium build, had a get-away car. He was last seen striding down a hallway toward the Pandora Street entrance of City Hall.
In some respects, the robbery resembled a holdup at the Royal Bank of Canada directly across the street from City Hall Jan. 7.

Leonard Wilson, 29, of Duncan, who has confessed the robbery, took $1,340 from a cashier and was not seen after he left the bank doors. He was captured in Seattle the next day after a tip from a TCA passenger agent at Pat Bay Airport. He is in custody awaiting sentence.

Men Questioned

A number of men wearing jackets similar to the one on the bandit described by cashier Fredericka Scherbaum were stopped on the street and questioned.

Miss Scherbaum and another office employee who saw the bandit, Linda Barker, 1325

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Forgive us, dear God for behaving as if the very universe itself revolved around our selfish desires. Grant us a fuller measure of sympathy and compassion. Make ardent our eagerness to share with others; through Christ. Amen.

Historic Flight Completed by H-Bomb Jets

(UP and AP Dispatches)

MARCH AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. — Three B-52 Stratofortresses, America's inter-continental hydrogen bomb carriers, today completed the first non-stop jet flight around the world.

The mammoth planes, refueling in the air, made the historic 24,325-mile flight in the unofficial time of 45 hours, 19 minutes.

This was less than half the 94 hours, one minute required Lucky Lady II, on the first non-stop, globe girdling journey in 1931.

The planes flew at an average speed of 525 miles an hour. The flight left Castle Air Force Base, Calif., at about 1 p.m. Jan. 16. They landed here at 10:19 a.m. today.

The air force said a fourth plane, following a previously prepared plan, left the formation over Africa and landed in Britain "on schedule."

The big eight-jet bombers were refueled three times in flight by tanker planes. The route took the bombers, commanded by Major-General Archie J. Old Jr., across the United States to Newfoundland, over the Atlantic to French Morocco; over the city of Dhahran in Saudi Arabia; along the coasts of India and Ceylon; near the Malay peninsula; over the Philippines and Guam before heading over the eastern Pacific area.

Some of the refuelings were at night and some in bad weather, according to air force spokesman Maj. Jack Steffen.

Although the refueling points were not immediately announced, it was calculated by unofficial air force sources that the planes had received their refueling lines somewhere over the eastern Mediterranean, again over Saudi Arabia, and the last time over the Philippines before heading for California on the return leg.

POWDER PLANT BLAST NEAR OLYMPIA KILLS 6

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — Six persons were killed and four injured Friday in an explosion at the Pacific Powder Company plant at Tenino, south of here.

Sheriff Clarence D. Van Allen said a dozen buildings were either damaged or leveled by the blast.

The explosion rattled windows in Olympia, nine miles away from the plant.

Man Without Country Wins Board Hearing

(See Page 26)

VANCOUVER (CP) — Christian Hanna, 23-year-old stowaway and man without a country, was refused a writ of habeas corpus in Supreme Court today.

But the slight, swarthy migrant did win a hearing before an immigration board, set for later today.

Mr. Justice J. V. Clynne rejected the appeal for a writ after Vancouver lawyer Donald S. White obtained an order to have Hanna released from the Norwegian freighter Gudveig, aboard which he had been imprisoned for 15 months.

Hanna was released from the ship, docked at Port Alberni, Thursday and escorted to Vancouver by the 26-year-old lawyer who has taken up the refugee's case.

Russia-Red China Join To Oppose Ike Doctrine

MOSCOW (UP) — The Soviet Union and Red China jointly promised "necessary support" today to Middle East countries in resisting the "colonial policies" of the Eisenhower doctrine.

In a 2,500-word communique signed in the Kremlin this evening by Chinese Premier Chou En-Lai and Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin, both countries pledged to provide "the necessary support" to the people of the Near and Middle East in order to avoid aggression and interference in the affairs of the countries of this region.

The communique did not indicate what form this aid would take. After signing it, Chou departed by plane to resume the southeast Asian tour which he interrupted last month for his Moscow talks.

Both countries also demanded that Britain, France and Israel pay for the damage caused by their "aggressive action" against Egypt.

The communique contains six general points, none of which represents any change from previously-stated Soviet-Chinese policy.

The analysis of the international situation follows the customary line of accusing the United States, Britain and France of continuing the cold war and seeking to undermine the unity of "the socialist camp."

Ontario Said Ready To Enter Health Plan

BY VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Expectations are strong within government circles here that the province of Ontario will declare itself "in" on the federal government's national hospitalization insurance plan.

Negotiations are continuing between the federal government and Premier Leslie Frost's administration and it is believed that difficulties standing in the way of the Ontario government's participation may soon be surmounted.

The Ontario government is expected in the Throne Speech at the opening of the Ontario legislative assembly session at the end of this month to declare its readiness to enter into a hospitalization insurance plan with Ottawa. But it will add the rider that certain modifications must be made in the federal plan.

An exchange of views between the federal and Ontario provincial authorities are underway presumably aimed at bringing about the desired modifications. They may result in Hon. Paul Martin, minister of national health, being placed in a position where he can make an early announcement involving the provinces.

Cadboro Bay, Oak Bay Merger Wrong, Says Ash

It is a fallacy for Cadboro Bay residents to think they would gain by seceding from Saanich to join Oak Bay, Saanich Reeve, Arthur Ash said today.

The logical municipality for them to join is the city of Victoria, he pointed out—being the largest in the area and centre of the metropolitan area to which it will one day lend its name—the city of Greater Victoria.

Reports circulated recently claim a movement in the 'Bay area to revive interest in secession, rejected by Oak Bay in 1950.

The discussion apparently lacks direction, planning and organization even though a number of people in Cadboro Bay have indicated favor of the proposal.

"I don't think there is a definite agitation," said Arnold Edmonds, secretary-treasurer of the Cadboro Bay Ratepayers' Association.

JOIN UP
"General opinion seems to be rather than the higgledy-piggledy mess of four or five municipalities it might be better, to join up."

He agreed there is merit in the idea of Cadboro Bay becoming part of Oak Bay, but felt "if such a thing did occur it would probably have to be done by areas, such as the Panhandle."

"I don't think the effort has the enthusiasm it had in 1950," when referendums were held in Saanich and Oak Bay.

Mr. Edmonds took the stand that residents prefer to stay with "the devil they know rather than take on a new one."

He said he felt in a position to gauge opinion of residents in the 'Bay area better than other, non-committal spokesmen since he is an executive member of the ratepayers' association.

Reeve Ash said:
"If people think they're going to get more from Oak Bay than from Saanich, it's a fallacy. They'd get their roads and sewers and so on in time, but it would be by local improvement and they can get that in Saanich."

and the Gulf of Aqaba from developing once more into trouble spots.

Pearson suggested that the UN Emergency Force might station units in these areas until permanent measures can be worked out to ensure that no border raids are carried out and that free shippings are maintained in the gulf, which Israel claims would be menaced by Egypt.

The Canadian minister emphasized to the delegates that the new withdrawal resolution would be useless if it led only to "a withdrawal... to the old state of affairs."

"Surely there must be no return to the conditions—if we can avoid it—which helped to provoke the initial military action," he said.

Winds, Snow Still Ripping Deserted Ferry

PORT AUX BASQUES, Nfld.

(CP)—The Newfoundland ferry Cabot Strait lay listing, damaged and crewless on a sand bar six miles west of here today, her fate in the hands of wind and tide.

The Canadian National Railway, operators of the ship, pondered the prospect of salvaging mail and other cargo and the ship herself if the weather and sea are kind.

The 51 passengers and crew on the ferry when she grounded in an 80-mile-an-hour blizzard Thursday morning slept safely ashore Thursday night. They were rescued in dories through rolling surf. Capt. Edward O'Keefe and the last of his crew came off just before nightfall.

Through the night a watching party kept an eye on the ship from shore, about 100 yards distant. But the ferry, iced from topmast to waterline, was often hidden from sight by swirling snow. A skeleton crew was to be put aboard today.

Damascus in Syria is believed to be the oldest continuously inhabited city in the world.

Senate Delays Action Two Weeks on Duffus

(From Times News Services)

A senate committee Thursday postponed for two weeks consideration of a report which, if implemented, would declare vacant the Upper House seat held by Senator Joseph James Duffus of Peterborough, Ont.

The report, submitted to the Senate by clerk J. F. MacNeill Tuesday, said the 80-year-old Liberal senator had not attended the last two sessions of Parliament. The British North America Act stipulates that under this condition Senator

Duffus' seat must be declared vacant. This act contains no provision for Senator Duffus to retain his seat on compassionate grounds. The senator, member of the Upper Chamber since Feb. 15, 1940, is still in hospital in Peterborough.

Reporter's Trip Draws Sacred Blast

F. D. Shaw (SC, Red Deer) objected in the House to using public money to finance a trip made by reporter Douglas Leiterman to New Zealand.

After referring to a story Mr. Leiterman wrote about a New Zealand royal commission investigation of the Social Credit movement there, Mr. Shaw said he objects to the extent that public money may have financed the trip, even if only by providing free transportation.

Mr. Leiterman, who visited New Zealand with Health Minister Martin, said in a statement that "six otherwise empty seats on Mr. Martin's RCAF plane were made available to news organizations."

"All my other expenses were, of course, paid by my newspapers."

Mr. Leiterman is a member of the Ottawa bureau of Southam News Service.

Holding a clipping of Mr. Leiterman's story, Mr. Shaw asked, "Is our next election going to be characterized by guided political missiles?"

"To the extent that Canadian taxpayers may have in any way financed Mr. Leiterman's trip, even if only by providing free transportation, I object," Mr. Shaw said. "I object to that sort of thing because it is designed deliberately for one purpose and one purpose only at this time on the eve of an election."

Gordon Report Draws More Criticism

Renewed criticism from both sides was levelled at the report of the Gordon royal commission on Canada's economic prospects.

George Hees (PC-Toronto Broadview) described as "election bait" the commission report issued last week, forecasting a bright economic future.

He said the predictions were made to create an impression among voters that the improvements would come only under a Liberal government.

Mr. Hees predicted that Walter Gordon, Toronto accountant who headed the commission, will be offered a cabinet post succeeding Trade Minister Howe.

A. J. MacEachen (L-Inverness-Richmond) said its conclusions about the Atlantic provinces were "out of step with the current feeling of reasoned optimism" there.

Owen L. Jones (CCF—Okanagan-Boundary) welcomed the government proposal to pay grants in lieu of municipal taxes on all its properties receiving municipal services. But the municipalities, not the government, should assess the amounts, just as was done for other taxpayers.

He joined in urging higher old age pensions, but said it should be done immediately, and not as a political move.

Canada has a boom but it isn't prosperity, says R. R. Knight, CCF member for Saskatoon.

The government is helpless in the face of inflation. Interest rates were climbing, consumer debts were piling up and the farm economy was in a slump.

"I don't think that prosperity is the name for this whirlwind of borrowing and spending in which we are all caught up, and which leaves a good deal of wreckage in its path."

The government's only prescription had been to raise interest rates. People were driven to loans at exorbitant interest rates.

Mr. Knight said his latest information is that a total $2,400,000,000 was outstanding on consumer credit.

The purchasing value of old age pensions and family allowances had fallen. Hospital and medical costs had gone up and up.

"For the less well-off people, the thing is almost impossible. The government wouldn't do anything about that because it doesn't believe in economic planning."

A former Oshawa, Ont., mayor urged the government to consider establishing a fund from which hard-pressed municipalities could borrow money at low interest.

Michael Starr (PC, Ontario), Oshawa mayor for four years, said it has become increasingly difficult for municipalities to borrow money because of high interest.

He said municipalities are obliged to pay a higher rate of interest than their credit warrants.

Mr. Starr said many municipal services can't be postponed. This was an apparent reference to statements by Finance Minister Harris that municipalities which feel their projects are worth while will have to pay higher interest or postpone the projects.

A Newfoundland Liberal suggested Thursday Canada's railways should be considered public utilities.

C. W. Carter (Burlington-Burton) said that since Canadian railways "are not basically sound enterprises within themselves as economic units, and since they have other functions even more important than the economic, I believe it would be better if they were regarded as public utilities."

"The railways could be used as an effective instrument in equalizing the cost of living in different parts of Canada. In Newfoundland, the CNR creates inequalities in living costs and makes existing ones even worse."

Mr. Carter also criticized the CNR for its ferry service on Placentia Bay, in his riding. "Every time I travel on the M. V. Burlin ferry I am scandalized at the conditions which the travelling public are forced to put up with in this part of my riding."

"Picture women and children being forced to sit up all night in stormy weather huddled together on a bench in a tiny dining room or sitting on their luggage in a narrow corridor because there is no place for them to lie down."

The Senate received a report recommending that persons seeking parliamentary divorces name co-respondents in their petitions.

The report also recommended that petitioners name the time and place the alleged adultery was committed by the respondent. If it was not possible, the petitioner would have to satisfy the Senate divorce committee that every effort had been made to obtain the information.

Mr. Knight said his latest information is that a total $2,400,000,000 was outstanding on consumer credit.

The purchasing value of old age pensions and family allowances had fallen. Hospital and medical costs had gone up and up.

"For the less well-off people, the thing is almost impossible. The government wouldn't do anything about that because it doesn't believe in economic planning."

EMPRESS OVERCOMES ENGINE TROUBLE, DOCKS

LIVERPOOL (Reuters)—The Canadian Pacific flagship, Empress of Britain, troubled by a fault in the port engine, berthed at Gladstone dock today. Capt. Stanley W. Keay radioed for tugs to stand by Thursday night to help the ship up the Mersey. The captain said the delay had been caused by a fault in the cowl of the low-pressure turbines in the port engine.

Mid-East Crisis Not Colonialism Says Eden on Departure for N.Z.

LONDON (Reuters)—Sir Anthony Eden sailed south today to a rest in the sunshine of the New Zealand summer—but not before adding a final word on the Middle East crisis that preceded his resignation nine days ago. He said as he boarded his ship good wishes from Harold Macmillan, his successor, and, he said, "a kind personal note" from President Eisenhower. Eden was pale and drawn as he went aboard the 16,900-ton liner Rangitata at Tilbury docks with the former prime minister began his trip with messages of

The Gap Remains

IT IS NOT SURPRISING, AFTER his many miscalculations, that Mr. Dulles is now trying desperately to push a Middle East policy through a dubious Congress. Events are moving fast in the hottest trouble spot of the world. The bewildered and furious governments there pay no attention to the convenience of the United States. But even if the so-called Eisenhower Doctrine is approved by the Congress, as no doubt it will be, this expansion of American power and charity can solve nothing permanently. It is not the end of anything. It is only the beginning.

To be sure this policy represents a huge commitment of American resources. For example, it guarantees, against overt aggression, 965 miles of the border between Russia and Iran, 1,100 miles between Russia and Afghanistan and altogether an area of 1,500,000 square miles containing over half the world's oil reserves and lying some 5,000 miles from Washington. In reality, however, this is no new guarantee, for the United States was always bound to fight, if necessary, for the nations of the Baghdad Pact and, as the threat of Russian volunteers in Egypt showed not long ago, the United States would never tolerate overt Russian penetration into this vital region.

The first obvious weakness of the Eisenhower Doctrine, as its critics have been quick to see, is that it provides no safeguards against the only sort of penetration which Russia is likely to undertake—the tactic of quiet subversion, the inside job. Latest news from Egypt shows how great this danger really is. The Egyptian Government, at first friendly to the United States because Mr. Eisenhower opposed the British-French intervention, has suddenly changed its mind and is viciously assailing the American offer of economic aid to the Near East as a mere disguise for a new colonialism.

Clearly Mr. Eisenhower is only entering his time of troubles in the Middle East. His Doctrine is a first step toward an adequate policy and only a first step, as no doubt he fully realizes. The American Congress and people, however, do not yet realize what has actually happened in the Middle East, how the whole pattern of Western power, there has collapsed and the old foundations of peace have cracked.

It is useless now to assign blame for these disasters but their results must be faced. They have not yet been faced in Washington.

As The New York Times observes, Britain is slowly but surely reaching new decisions on the basis of its recent experience in the Middle East and these decisions will soon confront the United States with new decisions and responsibilities. Britain may be expected to cut its overseas military and financial commitments, turning at least some of its burdens over to the United States — burdens much heavier than the Eisenhower Doctrine.

The real question in Washington, says The Times, "is whether the new world is going to continue to assume the responsibilities of the old, whether the Government at Washington, which is trying desperately to level off its overseas expenses, is prepared to assume new costs with every crisis; in short, whether Washington is going to deal with these questions piecemeal at the point of danger, or to get to the heart of the crisis, which lies not in the Middle East but in the divisions and weaknesses of the Atlantic Community, and particularly in the failure of the British to replace their old system with the political and economic unity of Western Europe."

Britain may concentrate its diminished power in some form of European union (apparently the great objective of Prime Minister Macmillan) but even if this objective is attained the rifts in the alliance are by no means repaired, the forces of nationalism are still erupting in the Middle East and the forces of communism are trickling in. As against the events flowing from the decline of British and French power the Eisenhower Doctrine, in its present form, is hardly a watertight wall. It is more like a sieve. Mr. Eisenhower's problem is to close those gaping perforations.

A Sound Budget

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER'S new budget reveals his two major anxieties. They are the danger to peace abroad and the danger of inflation at home.

To strengthen the peace Mr. Eisenhower proposes to increase defence expenditures by $2 billions to a total of $45.3 billions, including $4.3 billions for foreign aid.

To strengthen the value of the American dollar, endangered by inflation, the president proposes to accumulate a surplus of revenue over expenditure in the next fiscal year. He estimates that surplus at $1.8 billions and, to secure it, he is opposed to any general tax reductions.

Here Mr. Eisenhower faces the same financial and political problem which is presently plaguing the Canadian Government. To maintain existing tax rates when they yield a revenue surplus is never popular but it is one essential feature of an effective attack on inflation.

Directly it restrains the total demand for goods. Indirectly, and more importantly, it throws the moral weight of the government behind a policy of restraint by the business community and the general public. If any government is not prepared itself to act courageously against inflation it need expect no individual action from the citizen.

Canada faces much graver inflationary dangers than the United States simply because our capital investment program—with its huge demand for materials and manpower—proportionately exceeds that of our neighbor by a wide margin.

If the United States, in easier circumstances than ours, sees the necessity of a budget surplus at this time and the folly of premature tax reductions, Mr. Harris is even more obligated to follow similar policies in his forthcoming budget.

Back to Politics

WHEN PARLIAMENT MET IN special session last November some Conservatives (though not Mr. Diefenbaker) attacked the Government for betraying Britain in the Suez crisis. When the Conservative Party met in convention a few days later these attacks were dropped like a hot potato. Apparently that particular quarrel was over and the long-standing bipartisan foreign policy of Canada restored.

Among those who had nothing to say against the Government's attitude on Suez was Mr. Davie Fulton of Kamloops, a candidate for the party leadership. Yet this week Mr. Fulton chose to revive the argument and charged that the Government apparently had written off the Commonwealth as a force for world peace.

The fact, of course, is that Canada sought to mediate a quarrel which, as Mr. Pearson said, had brought the Commonwealth to the verge of dissolution. It did not write off the Commonwealth but, on the contrary, tried, within Canada's means, to strengthen it.

The full record will leave no doubt about those facts but surely it is unnecessary, unprofitable and unwise for Mr. Fulton to go over all this unhappy ground again. Surely it will do the nation and the Conservative Party no good to make an issue of these matters in the next election.

That was not the intention of the party convention, nor the intention of Mr. Diefenbaker. But if Mr. Fulton is determined to pursue a purely negative line of thought and concentrate on the past instead of offering constructive policies for the future nothing can stop him. Evidently even Mr. Diefenbaker cannot stop him.

Working in Concert

THIS COMMUNITY WILL profit by heeding Mr. Hugh Stephen's plea for concerted action on a centennial project.

The vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce has urged a meeting of service club representatives to pick one major target as a means of marking British Columbia's hundredth birthday and aim directly at that target, not weaken their efforts by diffusion.

The advice is sound. Its application, however, depends on unanimous approval of some particular project, as yet not chosen.

It will be gratifying to hear, in the near future, that the clubs, whose delegates approved the proposal in principle, have agreed on some undertaking of permanent value, preferably of historical import and of general appeal to the public.

Smoke Across the Line

FROM MOSCOW

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Cosiness at the Kremlin

FOR the inexperienced traveller, the Kremlin is the first great surprise of Moscow. The grim, grey fortress one had expected to find turns out instead to be unimaginably pretty.

The rather low, ornately crenelated walls are not grey but a rich, dark strawberry red. The "high" decorated guard towers are pure objects of medieval fantasy. The ancient churches rise to happy, riotous heights of colored and gilded domes. The palaces are painted a bright butter yellow picked out with white.

In fact, the Kremlin really looks like a particularly gay decoration by Bakst for one of Diaghilev's earlier ballets, rather than the dark citadel of the world's imagination. Inside the Kremlin, too, one is due for some brisk surprises. Or so I found the other day, when I attended the vast Kremlin party in honor of East German Premier Grotewohl and his colleagues.

Hard Day for Hosts

It must, on the whole, have been a hard day for the Kremlin's masters. In early afternoon, in leaden, icy weather, they had welcomed China's Premier Chou En-lai at Vnukovo Airport with ostentatious ceremonies, including interminable speeches and the long evolutions of a brilliantly uniformed, wonderfully smart, menacingly goose-stepping guard of honor, of young Russian giants.

Lacking Pomp

St. George's Hall, a Czarist legacy, must be one of the biggest rooms in the world, and its white plaster decorations are so elaborate that it gives you the feeling of being inside a gigantic wedding cake. Around the walls, long lines of tables offered supper to the company of fifteen hundred or more persons present. There was caviar and every sort of cold dish and sweet Russian wine and brandy and vodka and the admirable Russian ice cream and champagne as well. But the occasion somehow lacked pomp.

Partly this was because the Soviet upper crust and their wives are mostly large, solid people, darkly and respectably clad, with the look of being solid citizens with no nonsense about them. Partly it was because there are daily children's parties in the Kremlin at this season, and this fantastic room had been decorated for the children in the manner of a parish hall at Christmas, with a splendid fifty-foot Christmas tree and an enormous but very parish hallish snow scene above the stage at the further end.

But chiefly this feast for fifteen hundred people produced its curiously cosy effect because the crowd tucked in the eatables and drinkables with such cheerfully visible enthusiasm, and the Kremlin's masters, who were no less enthusiastic about eating and drinking, also exuded so much hospitable geniality. With their foreign guests and the diplomats, the members of the Presidium occupied a sort of semi-enclosure of their own beneath the snow scene, where they played host as though on a stage.

Bulgarian, Khrushchev, Molotov and the other senior rulers of the Soviet Union are all markedly short men—Stalin would have no tall fellows about him. And these short, smiling men, working hard to make the party "go," hardly looked like the stern masters of the greatest empire in history.

Nourishment and pleasure, however, were by no means the only business of the evening. Premier Bulganin, the very image of goateed benevolence, opened the formal proceedings with the first speech and the first toast which the band greeted with another fanfare—for Kremlin toasts are celebrated almost in the Danish manner that Hamlet complained about.

Thereafter with only occasional pauses, the speaking and toasting continued for almost three hours.

Interpreters Exhausted

The difficulty was that at least one representative of each of the "parties" that form the East German "coalition" had to be heard from. As German leader succeeded German leader, exhausting relays of interpreters, one began to understand at least one of the Kremlin's objections to multi-party government—the more so because the bearded, be-ringed, flowingly robed Metropolitan of Moscow, who must be a sharp man, was almost the only person in the huge room who managed to find a place to sit down.

Yet the seemingly unending oratory prevented no one from chatting and drinking. Even Chou En-lai, after listening to the speakers with formal politeness for more than an hour, broke down to the extent of holding his own private reception of Asian diplomats. Then the oratory really did end after all. The famous ballerina, Plisetskaya, briefly but exquisitely appeared. There was singing. There was music. There was a young man from the Bolshoi Theatre Troupe who danced the famous Gopak in a way that would have been hard to imitate, even at a dictator's behest.

Budapest Far Away

At length, the massive golden chandeliers were darkened. Concealed lights astonishingly transformed the painted snow scene into a red and green and pink and blue and silver aurora borealis. And so, with a round of applause for the aurora and one final toast, the party came, to a happy end. By then, one had almost forgotten the language of the speakers, who had sounded again the old notes of the cold war. Indeed one had all but forgotten the young dead in the streets of Budapest. ## As Our Readers See It

Could Resign

Your editorial in your issue of Monday, entitled "A Policy of Make-Shift" was very frank indeed for a newspaper the general policy of which is favorable to the government.

You pointed out in the critical article that Hon. C. D. Howe has three options, viz.: (1) he could stand by his unprofitable contract with Trans-Canada and its huge government subsidies; (2) he could insist that the contract be changed to give Canada a higher (and available) price for prairie gas, or (3) he could take over the whole pipeline project as a government enterprise.

May I suggest to you that in all seriousness he has a fourth alternative and that is that he could and should resign immediately from office. He, with the government, has been responsible for a tragically bad policy with reference to the whole pipeline issue.

Mr. Howe has shown himself to be an arrogant and stubborn minister and the government has been too weak to resist his tantrums and, of course, the whole government including the Prime Minister must share the blame.

ROBERT D. HARVEY,
620 View Street.

'Righteousness and Wrath'

Ruth Enke's article "Righteousness and Wrath" (Jan. 14) really does not justify her self-defined "Wicked old sinner that I am." She is what she claims to be — "a rebel" against what appears to her as "narrow righteousness and wrath," and illustrates her rebelliousness by rather harsh references to some who disapprove of Dec. 25 as a Christian festival and birthdays, present-giving, holly, mistletoe, etc., etc.

Then she challenges, "How about it. Fundamentalists?" More than 19 centuries ago, One whom I'm sure Ruth loves, went into Jerusalem's temple, and because of what He saw and the purpose of what He beheld, exclaimed, "It is written: 'My house is the house of prayer,' but you have turned it . . . into something else."

There's the rub: Christmas as a "Christian" festival, and the other hallowed gatherings connected with it, presumably in "honor" of Jesus Christ!

The apparent "narrow righteousness and wrath" is really a reminder of the effect these things have upon the main purpose of Christian worship.

The National Council of the Churches of Christ (U.S.A.) in their "State of the churches report" says, "When we consider how little it costs to be counted among church members in our country today, we are troubled. . . . The average church is so much conformed to it that, that people are surprised if it sharply challenges the prevailing behavior of the community." (Time, Dec. 13, '54.)

Help to the Ill

In tribute to the late John Mooney, we would like to record his voluntary effort in introducing and sustaining square dancing which helped combat misfortune and succeeded in making life more pleasurable and bearable to those undergoing a transitory period of mental illness.

John Mooney's actions hastened the recovery of patients and inspired a better understanding in a confused and troubled world.

Humane Slaughter

In view of the widespread desire for humane slaughter in Canadian abattoirs this society wishes to draw to the attention of all those interested the fact that a resolution will be presented in the Federal House this session for the passage of a bill effecting compulsory humane slaughter of our food animals.

We trust everyone interested will contact his member urging his strong support. JUDITH ZACH.

No Rough Ride

Mr. H. C. Williamson in a letter to the Times regarding a complaint against the local CHEK-TV station states, "Before the station was built, we made a strong protest to Mr. Ash, who rode rough-shod over our ideas and intimidated that the station was of the utmost importance to the municipality and we, his property-owners and taxpayers, meant little in the scheme of things."

I have no objection to fair criticism. Mr. H. C. Williamson certainly goes beyond the bounds of fair criticism. His statement has no basis of foundation and he should know better. At no time did I ever intimate that the taxpayers "meant little in the scheme of things."

A public hearing was called by the council on the application for rezoning the property. Both sides were given wide scope to present their case. The main argument against rezoning was on the grounds that the new TV station would interfere with reception of other channels. There was absolutely no evidence submitted to show or prove that property values would suffer. The claim that other channels would be affected could not logically be considered by the council. It was a matter entirely out of our jurisdiction and one for the department of transport or the board of governors of the CBC.

It should be added that Mr. Williamson and any others could have made their objections known to the board of governors when that body considered the application for a licence long before the municipal council considered the rezoning application. Their meeting was advertised in the newspapers and by radio.

After hearing both sides the council on a unanimous decision granted permission to rezone. The council, not the rezoning, had to make a decision. As a member of council I accept my share of that responsibility and would do so again.

The above facts in brief, do not support Mr. H. C. Williamson's erroneous statement that I rode "rough-shod" over the delegation. Incidentally, I am one of those affected in losing channel 5. However, I and my family still enjoy all the TV we want. I think we shall survive this terrible (?) calamity. I am thankful that Victoria, according to the experts, is fortunate enough to enjoy more TV stations than any other city on this continent.

Causes of War

Mr. Frank Snowsall says that "if" some nations put the energy into the United Nations that they put into regional pacts such as NATO, the UN could be made effective, and steps could be taken toward establishing peace on earth.

However, the UN will never become effective because the mainspring of modern society is profits or the accumulation of capital. Commodities must be sold to realize profits and it is the international competition for markets and raw materials that gives rise to modern wars, and wars are an extension of this commercial competition. An effective UN would interfere with this basic process.

The UN was never meant to prevent wars any more than the League of Nations was. An important function of the UN has been to induce the masses who do the fighting to think that their governments were really trying to do something to prevent wars.

If Mr. Snowsall wishes to do something toward establishing peace on earth he ought to pay less attention to effects and more attention to causes in this peculiar civilization.

The U.S. Will Take More

From The New York Times

PRESIDENT Eisenhower has ordered the continued admission of Hungarian refugees beyond the present quota of 21,500. At the same time he is preparing to ask Congress to open the door much wider to refugees from all countries suffering from Communist oppression.

These steps are in line with recommendations submitted to the President by Vice-President Nixon, following his first-hand survey of the refugee situation in Austria and Germany.

As Mr. Nixon says in his report, aid to the refugees cannot solve the larger problem of winning freedom for Hungary and other Communist-dominated countries; that can be achieved only by keeping aglow the flame of liberty in these countries and by continuing the pressure of world opinion for the withdrawal of Soviet troops.

But the free nations can demonstrate their sympathy with this struggle by sharing to the extent of their capabilities the responsibility of caring for those who can fight no longer and must choose between deportation and death or exile.

In that task the United States, with its vast resources and spaces, must take the lead. As Mr. Nixon has pointed out, the refugees from Hungary especially are of the highest order, the majority being young people and including technicians, craftsmen and members of the professions. They are not a liability but a valuable national asset for any country receiving them.

It is gratifying that, in contrast to narrower views prevailing in the past Congressional leaders have risen to the occasion and endorsed the President's program.

For the Many—So Few

Excerpt from an article "The Coming Crisis in Medicine," by Brian Inglis in The Spectator:

During the present century a change has taken place in the nature of illness. In Britain today, well over 40 per cent of hospital beds are in mental hospitals; the total would be higher if room could be found for all the people who ought to be in mental hospitals.

Then there are patients suffering from what are loosely termed "nervous" disorders. Their number cannot easily be estimated, but a proportion often mentioned is around 25 per cent of general practitioners' patients; some GPs insist it is very much higher.

Finally, there are the patients whose illnesses, though they have physical symptoms, can be traced to emotional disturbances. This too remains disputed territory, but it is no longer denied that in certain illnesses—for example, asthma, some types of skin disease, peptic ulcer, and hypertension—the root of the trouble is usually emotional rather than physical.

It is beginning to be suspected, too, that in many other illnesses—flu, TB, cancer—emotional disturbances may play a decisive part. And in all illnesses, even down to broken bones or cuts, it has long been recognized that the patient's temperament and state of mind may dictate the time required for recovery.

In other words, by far the greatest medical problem of the present day is how to achieve understanding of the workings of the mind. It might therefore be expected that the country's health services would operate on that assumption. They do not.

From the day a medical student begins his courses, he finds they are devoted almost exclusively to instruction in the workings of the body. He may take a few lectures in psychology and psychiatry, but at very few medical schools are there compulsory examinations in these subjects.

They are taught, where they are taught at all, as sidelines; the time-honored visits to a mental hospital are often treated as a rather gruesome joke. Universities have grudgingly been creating chairs of psychiatry; but rarely is it considered anything more than just another subject to be squeezed a little way into an already overloaded curriculum. Certainly there is no attempt to present mental health to the student as an integral part, and far the most important part, of medicine.

When the student graduates, he finds that psychiatry is still the poor and rather disreputable relation. In hospital appointments psychiatrists bulk small; in influence, still smaller. It was stated recently in the House of Commons that only 2 per cent of the Medical Research Council's budget is devoted to work on mental health; and the amount provided by charity is a trickle.

'Let 'Em Eat Cake'

I'VE never been too mad at Marie Antoinette for answering "Let 'em eat cake," when somebody bust into the party to say the people of Paris had no bread — if Marie Antoinette said it.

The girl just wasn't informed. She didn't read the newspapers, maybe because there weren't newspapers as we know them. Even if there had been, they wouldn't have talked much about milling trends to put on circulation in the palace set.

Sometime during National Newspaper Week, which should be rolling around shortly, I'd like to hear someone elaborate that theory.

It looks like a natural for the newspaper case. The argument would go like this: Marie and the girls were isolated from events and the ho-polo. They had no appreciation whatever for the distress of fellow humans of a much lower social strata. When they heard the people had no bread, it seemed reasonable to suggest that the folk dig into the cookie jar, or carve up the angel-food. It tasted better, and Marie's crowd didn't know how injurious soft, sweet stuff was on teeth. "Let 'em eat cake" was a logical enough rejoinder to the statement there was no bread.

NO STORY

To continue the case for the press:

If there had been an adequate mass medium for mass medium, read newspaper throughout, this lack of information could not have existed. Marie would have had some appreciation for the starving. She wouldn't have been silly enough to make wisecracks about them. There would have been no "Let 'em eat cake" story.

Or would there?

Bring Marie up to date. Make her an active young 1937 miss still interested in high school affairs, a voracious reader (usually of the wrong stuff) and a contributor to her high school newspaper.

Her information would not be restricted to an appreciation of the difficulties faced by a shrinking dollar, chasing ascehding food prices. She'd know about that, of course, ever since the five-cent ice cream cone became extinct.

As an active member of her high school newspaper club she'd know that publishing a high school paper can be reasonably costly — even without another hike in newsprint. She'd realize that the limited circulation of her publication with its resulting depreciated advertising rates, didn't quite bring in enough money to meet expenses.

Like dozens of other youngsters who brush briefly against the hard facts of publication through activity on a high school paper, she'd start casting about for additional revenue.

She'd have to, if the high school paper were to survive — and high school papers must survive, though nobody seems to know quite why, unless it's to provide an interest for those interested in high school newspapers.

Eventually, to save the paper, she'd start looking for some form of subsidy, though she wouldn't call it that. At all events, in the preservation of a high principle — that young people should have the right to publish and read the type of paper they want (a good democratic principle in moderation) — she'd have to figure out ways of raising more money.

EAT CAKE AND HAVE IT

If she went to Oak Bay she'd find an answer. Out there, whatever the appetite may be for the written word in the school publication, it is exceeded many times by the appetite for sweet eating. Facing reality, she could do what Oak Bay did — call on the newspaper club members to ask their mothers to whip up a few cakes to be sold at 10 cents a cut at lunch hour.

Your modern Marie would have come full cycle — from courtly France's ignorance, through the enlightenment of the written word in the newspaper to appreciation of the human appetite.

Once more she could say, with infinitely more grace, "Let 'em eat cake," and thereby preserve that great institution, the newspaper. Pretty irrational, you think? Maybe. But have you noticed how many people pay far too high a price for liquor to subsidize B.C. education, of which the high school paper is a minor offshoot. Isn't that cake-eating of a kind, too?

Too Many Patients

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez to Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

The other day a man scolded me for having mentioned the fact that some unfortunate physicians see from 50 to 100 patients a day. My critic assumed that these doctors take on this terrible burden of work because they are heartless money-grabbers. Unfortunately, my scolder was not well informed. The doctors who see so many patients a day are usually not the money-grabbers. I have known quite a few physicians of the old school who saw from 50 to 100 patients a day, and charged each one only a dollar or two for the visit. Some of them "threw in" a bottle of medicine!

Obviously, such physicians cannot either examine a patient thoroughly, or do much laboratory work or X-ray work. They can only make a quick guess as to what the trouble is. I could not bear to practice in such a way. To me, a life like that would be an awful treadmill. And yet, I have respected thoroughly many of the doctors I have known who have done this type of work. They felt that with their clientele of poor people, it was either this type of practice or none at all.

SOCIALISM NO CURE

The man who scolded me said that the cure for such over-burdening of doctors is socialized medicine. Actually, the experience of countries like England shows that the cure is not in the socializing of medicine. Socialized medicine, with its small charges per patient, is likely to compel a man to see from 50 to 100 patients a day in order to get a living for his wife and children. And this compels him to practice a poor type of medicine.

Once, when I was in a foreign country in which most people do not have to pay anything when they go to the doctor, I watched a physician as he took care of perhaps 30 patients in a couple of hours. And I saw this particular type of medical practice at its best because my friend was a well-educated man, a kindly man, and an idealistic one — one who loved medicine and hated the poor type of work he had to do. He hated it so much that he was seriously thinking of giving up medicine and going into business.

As my friend took care of those 30 people he never even greeted them as they came in or said goodbye as they left. He did not look at them and he seldom asked any questions. In each case, a very short history had been taken for him by a nurse. One can imagine how inadequate it was for the making of a diagnosis. If the patient needed surgical work, he was sent to a hospital; and if he needed medicine, the doctor wrote on a slip of paper "No. 66" or "No. 85."

If the nurse remarked that he had already had medicine number 66, without improvement, the doctor would say, perhaps "No. 94." If the nurse said, "This fellow has been here four times and still has his cough," the doctor might initial an order to send the fellow into a hospital for an X-ray study of his lungs.

If I had a son contemplating going into medicine in that particular country, I would beg him to try something else. Socialized medicine of that type is no occupation for anyone who hates to be ashamed always of the work he is doing.

Some may ask, "But why didn't he stop and do good work?" Because he had a wife and some children to educate, and being paid only a few cents a visit, he had to see many patients a day.

EDUCATING SPASTIC CHILDREN

I have just been reading an excellent book by Dr. F. Eleanor Schonell (Philosophical Library) on the education of spastic children. Many mothers of spastic children wish very much that they could find some information in regard to them, and especially in regard to teaching them all they have capacity for learning. Dr. Schonell shows that while some spastic children are mentally retarded, many are of average intelligence, and some are bright. The book tells of the many things that some spastic children can be taught, and how they can be taught. Some of the book is a bit technical, but all well-educated mothers can read it with great profit. If any of them want to get the book, they should write to the publishers — not to me.

Another book that all mothers of spastic children should read is Christy Brown's autobiography — "My Left Foot." This very bright Irish lad, who could not walk or talk or even feed himself, is now immensely better, and has written a delightful book (Simon and Schuster) full of understanding of the many problems of a spastic child.

EGYPT'S RESERVES EXHAUSTED

Economic Plight Reason for Seizure?

By SYDNEY CAMPBELL

Reuters Financial Editor

LONDON (Reuters)—"Egyptianization" of banks and insurance companies makes no immediate difference to any country's business in or with Egypt but it throws important light on Egypt's economic plight and may have a minor bearing on the question of compensation.

In announcing the new legislation, Finance Minister Kalsi asserted that after the Suez Canal nationalization the British and French banks had refrained from financing the cotton crop or industrial and commercial enterprises and had thus created a slump in cotton prices and thereby injured Egypt's economy.

He further said that after the freezing of Egypt's currency reserves they had granted credits on such a scale as to exhaust the country's entire free currency reserves, causing a fall in the Egyptian pound abroad; and had undermined Egypt's economic situation.

Compensation To Be Paid Egypt, Not by It

London and Paris head offices of banks in Egypt deny these allegations. They say that up to the sequestration in early November their Egyptian offices operated normally, and that since the sequestration they have had no contact either way.

Sequestration is the term used for an Egyptian government order issued Nov. 1 that all French and British property, including oil installations, be registered with the finance ministry for seizure.

Regardless of the allegations and the denial, the significant thing is that Kaisun gives so serious an account of Egypt's economic situation and currency reserves — far the most serious that has yet come from Egypt.

Compensation will be paid to the Egyptian sequestration administration, not by it. A judicial body will be formed to assess fair compensation to be paid by the government to the administration.

As this stands, it will be merely a bookkeeping transaction between two Egyptian official bodies. Nevertheless, it might be the correct technical procedure for ultimately bringing this matter into a settlement of Egypt's claims and counter-claims with Britain and France.

Pending any such settlement, the Egyptian situation is of

Death Mine Reopened

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP)—Rescue workers and mine officials entered the Cumberland Coal Company's No. 4 mine today for the first time since a Nov. 1 explosion entombed 26 miners. They did not expect to reach the bodies until Saturday.

Altogether 38 lost their lives in the blast. Eighty-eight others were saved by heroic rescuers, some after being trapped underground more than three days.

Communion Cup Unsanitary, Hazardous, Says B.C. Doctor

NORTH VANCOUVER, B.C. (CP)—A North Vancouver doctor who declined to take communion wine from a cup shared by others has asked the Anglican Church to abandon its traditional practice.

Dr. Glen C. Bending said he has become "increasingly disturbed" about the risk of infection being spread by passing the communion cup from mouth to mouth.

It is "exactly the same as 50 or more people drinking from a wine or beer glass in a tavern," he said in a letter published in the current issue of the Canadian Medical Association Journal.

Most Rev. Harold Sexton, Anglican archbishop of British Columbia, said he thinks Dr. Bending is "unduly perturbed." "Never have I heard of a case of infection being traced to the chalice," Dr. Sexton said.

Dr. Bending's stand was supported by Dr. George Elliot, senior public health officer in Vancouver, who said:

...Like Father...Like Son, Now Neither One Is Talking

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP)—Patrolman Paul Johnson proved his bravery to his son, Ronald, 3.

Ronnie had his doubts about having his tonsils removed. So daddy had his tonsils out, too.

Now neither is talking.

JASPER, Ga. (AP)—A collie puppy, named Butch, literally crawled out of the grave to return to the side of his three-year-old master.

A neighbor's car hit Butch a couple of weeks ago. The neighbor shot the puppy to end his misery and then buried him in a shallow grave about five miles away.

Twelve days later Andrew

Wallace, three, and his father heard a scratching at the door and there was Butch.

The puppy was rushed to an animal hospital and is reported recovering.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Firemen had no trouble discovering the cause of the blaze they put out in a burning automobile.

The owner of the car told them it had frozen up on him in 13-degree weather. So he built a fire under the car to thaw it out.

WASHINGTON (AP)—J. T. Pyle, U.S. aviation safety chief, and an expert flyer, unexpectedly added 15 minutes to his log of more than 4,000 hours in the air. He got stuck in an elevator.

Although he has piloted civil jet transports, the automatic elevator controls were too much for him. He resorted to an emergency telephone.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A municipal court jury found motorist George W. Latta, 48, guilty Wednesday of drunken street car driving.

Arthur L. Miller complained Latta's street car bumped the rear of his car, backed up and bumped it again. When it happened a third time, Miller said, he called the cops.

LONG SHOTS—Flanked by stacks of diapers, Mrs. William Blankenship of Chicago holds her second set of triplets, Jeffery, Kevin and Leslie, born last month. Her first set was born in 1952. Consecutive triplets births are said to occur once in over 82 million cases. The diapers are the first batch of 15,000, a year's supply, presented to Mrs. Blankenship by Chicago Diaper Services. ## Marry Killer Of Relative To End Feud

ATHENS (CP)—An official count shows 128 families on the pride-ridden island of Crete are waging vendettas.

Nearly all began with a Romeo from one family making off with a Juliet from another.

The vendetta knows no limit of time or distance. One son of a family involved in a vendetta left the island for the sake of peace and settled on the Greek mainland. Years later, a member of the opposing family tracked him down and killed him.

The vendetta is a strictly family affair. In the Mani area there is a dramatic method of ending a vendetta. It is for a woman to marry the man who killed her close relative.

WEST GERMAN TO GET SHAPE ARMY COMMAND

PARIS (Reuters)—The post of commander-in-chief of Allied land forces, Central Europe, has been offered to West Germany, a spokesman at Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers in Europe said.

West Germany's Lt.-Gen. Hans Speidel has been reported most likely candidate for the post.

Red China's Chou Leads Cheering As Nikita Backtracks on Stalin

MOSCOW (AP) — Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev praised Stalin Thursday as a model Communist and called on all Communists to "fight like Stalin" in the interests of the working class.

Nearly a year ago Khrushchev denounced the late dictator as a mass murderer, assailed "the cult of the individual," and questioned Stalin's communism.

Roars of approval by the audience and wild applause by visiting Chinese Premier Chou En-lai greeted Khrushchev's statement at a gala reception given by Chou for Kremlin leaders in the plush Hotel Sovetskaya.

The party chief was needed by Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin.

With Soviet brandy and Chinese wine flowing freely in toasts of friendship and mutual praise, the red-faced, exuberant Khrushchev grabbed a microphone to make a speech that began:

"I don't need to say that I'm a Communist."

Bulganin interrupted: "But some people say you are a Stalinist."

"I am a Stalinist," Khrushchev whipped back, waving his fist in the air, "but I don't separate Stalinism and Stalin from communism. As a Communist fighting for the interest of the working class, Stalin was a model Communist."

"We have criticized Stalin, we still criticize him, and if necessary we will do it again. But we do not criticize Stalin as a bad Communist as far as the interests of the working classes are concerned."

"Stalin had his bad points. Lenin saw them before we did and pointed them out. They were borne out. The defects were bad."

"But in the things that counted, that is the interests of the working class, God grant that every Communist should fight for the interest of the working class as Stalin did."

Ex-premier Georgi Malenkov stood silent and unsmiling as Khrushchev wildly waved his arms and the party exploded laughter and applause.

Khrushchev continued: "If some people use Stalinism as a term of abuse, to mean stubbornness, refusal to compromise, willingness to fight to the end for the victory of the working class, then that is what Stalin means to us, and we are proud if we can be as true to Marxism and Leninism as Stalin was himself."

At this point Bulganin tried to draw Khrushchev from the microphone. But the plump party secretary held fast.

Khrushchev said capitalism must inevitably perish.

"Whether they like it or not they must die," he said. "It is like a pregnant woman who is about to give birth. You can't tell her to put it off. She has to give birth. It is a natural phenomenon. It is the same with the death of capitalism. Of course we will contribute what we can."

'WON'T YOU LEAVE ME ALONE?' ASKS SAWCHUK

Terry Comes Home Tired, Nervous and Determined

From CP and BUP

Terry Sawchuk arrived in Detroit today, tired, irritable and no closer to returning to the Boston Bruins than he was earlier this week when he slipped away from the team under a cloud of mystery.

Nervous after a train trip from Boston, Sawchuk shouted at Detroit reporters, "Can't a guy give up the game?"

"Won't you leave me alone? I'm not going to say anything."

Sawchuk asked to be left alone for two days and promised he would tell "the whole story" Monday.

Bombarded with questions, Sawchuk said, "If you want the whole story, ask Milt," meaning Milt Schmidt, Boston coach.

He said, "I feel real good. My sickness has nothing to do with it."

To a persistent reporter who asked Sawchuk if he is a "quitter," the goalie said, "All you'll get is a punch on the nose."

And while he is under suspension following his failure to attend a practice, general manager Lynn Patrick says Sawchuk still may return.

Asked whether the door still is open, Patrick replied:

"Yes, if Terry comes back to us and says he has made a mistake and is sorry, we'll take him back. He is human and so are we."

Coach Milt Schmidt, a great hockey player in his own right, reviewed his final talk with Sawchuk before the latter's departure.

Schmidt said Sawchuk told him he was leaving the game because of his nerves where, as he first had said he was quitting because "I'm fed up."

Schmidt said Sawchuk, still considered by many as the best goalie in professional hockey and three-time winner of the coveted Vezina Trophy, stuck to his decision.

However, he said Terry promised to let the team know if he has a change of heart after several weeks at home. Schmidt has mentioned the possibility that Sawchuk, ill with a blood ailment in December, may be ill again. If that were the case, the goalie would return to the good graces of the club.

Sawchuk, surprised by reporters as he boarded his train Wednesday night, said merely that he was going to his home and later would visit his native city, Winnipeg, where his mother is ill.

Sawchuk told newsmen who tracked him down in Boston as he prepared to board a train with his wife, "I'm mad. I'm not talking. I wasn't hiding out. I was locked up in my room and didn't answer the door or the telephone. And I got news for you. I'm gonna sue four Boston newspapers for what they said about me when I got home." Sawchuk did not elaborate in his statement about the newspapers.

Here is comment by Boston sports writers on the Sawchuk case:

John Gilhooly, The Record: "Sawchuk is the latest to succumb to puck-shot, an occupational malady long dreaded by goalies. Its last victim of consequence was Bill Durnan, who quit Canadiens abruptly but at the end of a season, not midway."

"Sawchuk departs squandering big money. He's amputating himself from half the $12,000 he receives from the Bruins."

"He has an off-season job as salesman for some Detroit manufacturer. The job will probably evaporate when Terry loses his hockey prestige, which will be immediately. It's gone and quickly forgotten in sports as well as other endeavors."

Jerry Mason, Globe sports editor: "The defection of Bruins' Terry Sawchuk, emotionally untraveled, points up certain unchallenged truths."

"1. A goaltender is hockey's bread-and-butter man."

"2. The position is sports' most pressurized; any sport."

"3. Sawchuk isn't hockey's first walk-out goalie."

"Although it is a revolting development at an agonizing moment of Bruins' injury-hobbled fight to stay in the NHL race, Prexy Walter Brown is philosophical.

"He says, 'I'll never ask a boy to play for us if he feels it endangers his health.'"

"It's a thankless job goaltending."

Herb Ralby, The Globe: "The door is open. Schmidt admitted, for Sawchuk's return if Terry has been sick. But if he has been healthy all the while it is doubtful if he would be of any future value to the team. Neither Schmidt nor the players would have the confidence in him they previously had."

to stop making a shooting gallery of his naked face for hockey marksmen who fire six-ounce rubber projectiles at 140 mph. is the reaction of a sensible man. There's a limit to staring down the muzzle of a shotgun and trying to bite the bullet. Hockey goal-tending is sport's most nerve wearing job, one that burns out its performers faster than bull fighting."

"Still it wasn't fear of disfigurement that led Sawchuk to quit—it was the constant tension, the strain of being in action a full 60 minutes with no relief and the final individual responsibility for enemy goals, split-second hero or clock-tick goat..."

Lindsay Takes Hint

Wings, Bruins Tie; Norm Defelice Stars

By The Canadian Press

When the present National Hockey League season was just starting, Jack Adams, outspoken and crafty general manager of Detroit Red Wings, told Ted Lindsay he was not showing enough interest in his job.

The irate all-star left winger gave up the captaincy of the Wings, and it looked as though he was finally on the downgrade after 12 great years.

However—as no doubt was Adams' original intention—Lindsay is presently in the midst of another spectacular season.

Thursday night Lindsay scored his 21st goal late in the third period to give Wings a 2-2 tie with the Bruins at Boston.

The goal—a converted Gordie Howe drive—kept Lindsay in second place in the NHL scoring derby, one point up on Howe.

MAY BE BEST YET

With the schedule just more than half played, Lindsay may beat his own best goal-scoring season. He had 23 in 1947-48. At his present rate, he'll score around 40.

Young Norm Defelice, brought up from Hershey of the American League to substitute for Terry Sawchuk for the second time this year, played a masterful game. He stopped 34 shots after a nervous start.

Larry Regan, Boston's 26-year-old rookie centre, put Bruins in front 2-1 midway through the third period on a great exhibition. He jumped over one Wing at centre ice, scooted around defenceman Marcel Pronovost and shot home a 15-footer while skating at top speed.

Bill Dineen gave Detroit a 1-0 lead in the first period, but Jerry Toppazzini, with his first goal in 13 games, made it 1-1 in the second.

Howe and Lindsay each gained a point on Jean Beliveau of Canadiens, who has a seven-point lead.

Scot Curlers Drop Four In Winnipeg

WINNIPEG (CP)—The touring Scottish curlers won their sixth game in the cross-Canada Strathcona Cup matches here Thursday but the Canadians increased an already top-heavy lead in the series to 6-5-379. The visitors have been beaten in 50 games.

Manitoba Curling Association members won four games for a total of 64 points against the Scots' one game and 32 points.

The J. F. Waugh rink upset J. H. Hindle from Winnipeg, 15-10. Billy Walsh, Canadian curling champion, clinched a close game by defeating the W. S. Henderson rink on the last end, 11-10.

The Scots will play five more games against Manitoba rinks to day.

Any performer who isn't "two-fisted, crowd pleasing, aggressive and rugged" just doesn't rate, and no matter how unexciting the bout the customers are about to see might be, there's always the promise of better things to come. The customers are supposed to forget the placid affair they are about to watch was described in similar glowing glowing terms a week before.

BUD WANTS PROTECTION FROM BRANDON ROOTERS

EDMONTON (CP)—Bud Poile, Edmonton Flyers' coach, said today he is requesting adequate police protection in the Western Hockey League game in Brandon, Man., Saturday night.

Poile said the request is going to Al Leader of Seattle, WHL president.

"I am sick and tired," Poile said, "of players having to protect themselves on the bench from the missiles and abuse of the Brandon fans and going to and from the dressing room."

"It is a big enough job for the players to look after themselves on the ice."

Totems Face Tough Test From Byng

Vic High Totems face some of their toughest basketball competition of the season when they host Vancouver's Lord Byng High School team tonight at 8:30.

Other high school games tonight will have Mount Doug at Oak Bay and Victoria Pedagogues at Esquimalt.

Totems, who have been improving steadily in recent games, will face a team that has won seven and lost seven in what is considered to be strong competition on the mainland.

While Lord Byng player is over the age of 16, they are reported to be a tall and willing crew. Halftime entertainment will be provided by 10 members of the Vic High Tumbling Club.

At Oak Bay, meanwhile, Mount Doug will make its first appearance of the season against a team that has lost only one game in seven starts.

Game time is 8. On Saturday the Bays will host Lord Byng. Esquimalt Dockers, who won their first game Thursday, will try their hand against the Victoria Pedagogues.

Dockers downed St. Louis College, 42-40, on Thursday for their first victory this season, and hope to do as well against the team of teachers.

NEW YORK (AP)—The Red Roster Sports Committee, an organization of Negro sports fans and athletes, threatened Thursday to picket the National Football League draft meeting at Philadelphia Jan. 31 in an effort to induce the Washington Redskins to seek Negro players.

A letter addressed to Tim Mara of the New York Giants, asked him to intercede with Redskins president, George Marshall. Tim Mara is not listed as an official of the Giants although his sons, John and Wellington, are club officers.

ONE-TWO PUNCH
Pete Turko and Gary Taylor combined in a sparkling two-man scoring effort that was not quite enough to upset Morrisons more-balanced attack.

Turko paced the scoring parade with 26 points while Taylor collected 22. High man for the winners was Jake Jacobson with 14 points.

Gordie Jones tossed in 24 points and playing-coach Norm Baker added 17 for the Double D's, who held a 30-25 lead at half time.

Paul Clarkson was again top sniper for the outgunned Fuelmen with a 21-point performance.

ANYWAY NORM FOUND IT FUNNY

Always smiling, Norm Baker, playing coach of Dickinson & Dunn, could see humor in the situation when he hit the boards during Tuesday night's Senior B Men's Basketball League playoff game against Rose Fuel at Victoria

Morrisons, Double D's Enter Final Argument

Battle for the city senior B men's basketball crown has narrowed down to a two-team argument.

Morrisons and Dickinson & Dunn advanced into the final by wrapping up their semifinal series in straight games at Victoria High School Thursday night.

Morrisons assured themselves of a berth in the final by defeating Drakes, 68-62, while the defending champion Tremen also closed out their semifinal set in straight games with a 64-50 triumph over Rose Fuel.

Opening game in the best-of-five final is scheduled at Vic High Tuesday night.

Drakes gave it a good battle before bowing out of the hoop picture for another season. The lead changed hands several times during the close-checking contest and it was only in the late stages that the Fuelmen assumed control.

ONE-TWO PUNCH

DOCKER SOCCER PLAN—DON'T LET GEORGE DO IT

The Esquimalt soccer club has its work cut out and clearly marked for Saturday's Jackson Cup semifinal game at Athletic Park.

All the Dockers have to do is stop the lusty scoring antics of George Robbins to be on even terms with Butler Brothers as the clubs battle for a spot in the Vancouver Island championship.

Robbins, former high school flash, returned to the Butler line-up this season after a bad leg injury. In the last two games, he has whipped in eight goals.

In Sunday league games, Canadian Scottish meets Punjab United at Heywood Avenue and Tillamucks play Brodies at Central Park. All games start at 2.

GIANT-KILLER BEATEN

Hunt Puts Stop To Mel's Habits

Bob Hunt took a deserved breath of relief Thursday night after tangling with a genuine giant-killer.

Hunt, defending men's singles champion in the annual city badminton championships being held at Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club, got by upset-minded Mel Chapman in the second round but not without a tussle.

Chapman, city junior champ who ousted Warren Bell in a first-round upset, made things sticky for Hunt Thursday night before bowing 8-15, 15-11, 15-7.

In another near upset, veteran Jimmy Wells was extended by B.C. junior champion Roger Lindal before prevailing. Set scores were 15-8, 8-15, 15-11.

Today's announcement covers results of shoots held in 1955.

The trophy is awarded to the Commonwealth country showing the highest musketry efficiency.

Canada, with 9,088 entries, topped the list in both number of competitors and marksmanship. The Canadians compiled an average score of 88.07 out of a possible 100.

South Africa, which had 6,088 entries, was second with an 88.02 average and the United Kingdom followed with 87.41.

Doug Bids for Century Club

Cats Can Take Second In Crucial Weekend

Doug Macauley goes knocking on the door of hockey fame tonight.

The handy little Victoria Cougar winger has piled up a total of 99 goals in his four and a half Western Hockey League seasons and tonight he looks for the goal that will put him in the charmed 100-goal bracket.

Macauley, small but elusive and a proficient sniper from close range, scored his 99th in Cougars' 7-1 rout of the New Westminster Royals Monday night at Memorial Arena.

Tonight the Cougars face Vancouver Canucks at Vancouver Forum and the keeper of the keys, as far as Macauley's bid to join the century club is concerned, will be Ray Mikulan, Canuck goalie.

They take on the arch-rival Canucks tonight and will stay on the mainland for a Saturday night game with New Westminster Royals.

Monday night, the Cats come home, meeting Canucks.

BIG WEEKEND
The weekend is loaded with possibilities for the Cougars, who keep tripping over themselves in their determined efforts to take a grip on the third and last playoff berth in the NHL's coast division.

At present, the Canucks and Royals are tied for second place, five points ahead of the Cougars.

Vancouver will be idle Saturday night so the ideal result for the Cats would be three straight weekend wins, which would put them in second place. The Royals play only one game over the weekend.

Both the mainland clubs have been hampered by injuries to key personnel.

The Royals lost the services, for another four weeks at least, of tiny winger Blinky Boyce, their top scorer. He suffered a cracked rib and internal injuries last week and was joined on the shelf by veteran Ollie Dorohoy, who cracked a rib in Monday's game here.

The Canucks, who have shown a remarkable proficiency for winning clutch games, have been doing so without starry winger Jackie McLeod, who damaged a knee a month ago, and defenceman Gord Hudson.

It is possible that McLeod will be back in harness tonight, which could add to the task set before the Cougars.

Steamers can navigate the Fitzroy River in Western Australia up to 100 miles from its estuary.

Doug Peden OUTDOOR REPORT

Persuasive salesmen have become an accepted part of almost every phase of modern life. Given time to develop their sales pitch, some of those articulate gentlemen are able to convince us we are living perilously close to the dark ages if we don't use their merchandise. Often we learn too late that we have been talked into buying something which we would just as soon do without. Not all salesmen are concerned with direct selling. Some of the best operate in the public relations field.

Perhaps one of the best jobs of selling in recent years has been done by some of those interested in construction of large dams on British Columbia rivers.

A succession of reports outlining how dams and survival of fish runs may be compatible have just about sold many people on the belief that we can have major dams and major salmon runs on the same rivers.

It has been suggested that fish on spawning runs could be moved past dams by fishways, hydraulic lifts or by trucking methods and that salmon fry migrating downstream could be safely flushed through turbines, or steered into fishways by electric currents, light, odors or chain reflectors. It has also been proposed that runs lost through dams could be replaced by diverting fish to tributary streams or by fish hatcheries.

Sometimes the arguments sound convincing. But the fact remains that present methods will not give us perpetual salmon runs and dams over 100 feet high on the same river.

Rapid industrial growth of British Columbia has resulted in a tremendous demand on the water-power resources of the province. And consideration is being given to hydro-electric development of some of our larger rivers.

No one will dispute that power development must accompany the industrial expansion. We are going to have more dams. The question is how well we can protect our fish. It is easy for those interested in production of electrical power to assure the public that salmon runs will not be unduly depleted by dams. Often it is easy to forget that our salmon represent a multi-million-dollar resource that needs little care other than maintaining spawning streams in near-natural condition.

Dr. Peter Larkin, a professor at the University of British Columbia, this week sounded a reminder that despite extensive research there is still no solution to the problem of getting salmon runs to exist on the same river as a major power dam.

Dr. Larkin, a member of the UBC Fisheries Institute, told the Vancouver Angling and Game Club that it is difficult if not impossible to attract adult salmon into artificial fishways around dams.

Nor is there yet any solution to the even more serious problem of guiding young salmon downstream without huge losses from power turbines and spillways.

He quickly dismissed the suggestions of tributary streams and fish hatcheries. Any tributary that could sustain a diverted run would have supported fish under normal conditions, he told the meeting, and hatcheries could not hope to match the productivity of major spawning streams.

More dams appear inevitable, but it is hoped they will be kept away from our main salmon rivers until a real solution has been found.

Research has shown that a delay of 12 days is enough to prevent salmon from reaching their spawning grounds under normal stream conditions. If they are unduly delayed, the result could be no spawning, no young salmon and, eventually, no salmon run.

The value of our commercial and sports fishing is well known and one doesn't have to look too far south to see the effects of a series of dams on the runs of sockeye and spring salmon to the Columbia River.

Although research may eventually provide the answer, do we have the right to risk destroying for future British Columbians any large part of our great salmon resources?

Lawsuit Could Wreck Pro Grid

WASHINGTON (AP)—A pro football lawyer said Thursday the National Football League "may very well be destroyed" if the U.S. Supreme Court orders trial of a suit charging the league with anti-trust law violations.

Bernard I. Nordlinger told the high court that "harassment and utter chaos" might result.

NFL lawyers fought an appeal by William Radovich, a former University of Southern California and pro guard, whose bid for $105,000 damages was dismissed in lower federal courts.

Radovich contended he was blacklisted for jumping from Detroit Lions to Los Angeles Rams in 1946. He charged the NFL seeks to monopolize the professional grid sport. And Maxwell Keith, his San Francisco lawyer, asked the Supreme Court to order a trial on merits of the complaint.

District and circuit courts in San Francisco tossed out the suit, saying football was a team sport like baseball and thus entitled to exemption from the anti-trust laws.

Jim Barber has drawn the top seed in "B" class and Keray Jones tops the ratings in "C" class. Vancouver's Art Proctor seeded first in "D" class, and Mrs. Lawina Greenwood of the Victoria club heads the ladies' seedings.

HOME IN 29 STROKES

Weetman's Flurry Startles Bookies

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex. (UP)—Everything is in black and white on the odds board in the $15,000 Caliente Open Golf Tournament and the bookmakers today listed these prices on the four men tied for the leadership at the start of the second round.

Defending champion Mike Souchak, 6-1; Julius Boros, Mid-pines, N.C., 12-1; Harry Weetman, Croydon, England, 15-1; and Len Kennett, Camp Pendleton, Calif., 30-1. The four shotmakers each had 68, four strokes under par on the Tijuana Country Club course, but were only one stroke ahead of five others and two strokes ahead of Jack Kay of Montreal and 11 other men deadlocked at 70.

With gambling sharing interest with the golfing results, the bookmakers cut Souchak from 8-1, Weetman from 25-1, Boros from 15-1, and Kennett from 70-1.

Thursday, they paid their backers not too well. Because of the four-way tie, the odds were cut in four on each man. In other words, Weetman, at 25-1 should have paid $32 for a $2 bet. Instead he paid only $13.

Regardless of the pay-off, there was some brilliant golf, especially by Weetman. He had toured the first nine in a disappointing 39 when he suddenly caught fire. He birdied the 10th. Then followed with five more birds in a row, before the ball hung on the lip on the 16th hole. He also birdied the 18th for a 29 on the back nine and a new course record. Boros and Souchak had 35-33 and Kennett, a

Compulsory Car Insurance In B.C. Opposed by Bonner

The B.C. government is generally opposed to the introduction of compulsory auto insurance, Attorney-General Robert Bonner indicated Thursday.

Russian Tanker Brings Oil to U.K.

LIVERPOOL, England (Reuters)—The first Russian tanker to reach Britain in 17 years has arrived here with oil from the Persian Gulf, it was announced Thursday. Liverpool agents said the 8,229-ton tanker Grodno is discharging 11,000 tons of crude oil at Dastham, near Birkenhead.

"We feel that the present insurance system is adequate," he said, "and it is very close to being compulsory."

For the past two years, the B.C. Social Credit League has approved resolutions at its annual convention calling for compulsory car insurance.

Mr. Bonner said, generally speaking, the B.C. government does not favor compulsion. If such a system were instituted there would be strong pressure from insurance companies asking the government to take over a share of the insurance for poor risks.

NO COMPENSATION

"This would be unsound," he said, "as the government would not get any compensation from the good risks unless it took over the whole field itself—and we would not be willing to do this."

Mr. Bonner said the pink slip law "exerts a strong moral reminder" to the driver to take out insurance.

"As for the unsatisfied judgments, not many claims go beyond the rate of payment."

Adams Refused to Hospitalize Rich Widow Associate Testifies

By EDDY GILMORE
EASTBOURNE, Eng. AP)—A medical associate of Dr. John Bodkin Adams said today Adams would not allow a rich widow he is accused of poisoning to be moved to a hospital.

Dr. Ronald V. Harris testified he told Dr. Adams of his suspicion that Mrs. Gertrude Hullett was suffering from an overdose of drugs.

Five justices of the peace are holding a preliminary hearing into charges that Adams poisoned, for profit, another of his rich elderly patients. The Crown also accuses him of killing Mrs. Hullett and her husband out of "greed for money."

Harris said he first saw Mrs. Hullett three days before her death last July in answer to an emergency call because Dr. Adams was not available.

"I found her in a comatose state and she could not be roused," he testified.

MISSING CHEQUE
Also scheduled to testify today was the coroner who held the inquest into Mrs. Hullett's death last summer. The Crown wants to ask him about a missing £1,000 cheque which Scotland Yard says Mrs. Hullett gave Adams just before she died.

'Baby Doll' Banned In N.B.

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—The New Brunswick Board of Censors Thursday banned the motion picture "Baby Doll" from provincial theatres.

Board chairman George S. Enos said, "Our reasons for condemning it are over-emphasis on lust, that it is very cruel and degrading and has an extremely low moral tone."

The Hollywood movie, "Baby Doll," which opens here for a week, Feb. 7, has been condemned by the Roman Catholic Church, and Greater Victoria parishioners today were told not to see it.

A spokesman for Bishop James Hill said the film, which deals with the squalid story of a feeble-minded girl married to a man many years her senior in the deep south, is "definitely condemned."

The film has been passed by the provincial censors with an "adult only" label.

GLEASON, CARNEY AGREE TO SPLIT

NEW YORK (AP) — Art Carney confirmed Thursday that he's ending his five-year television association with comedian Jackie Gleason when his contract runs out in June.

Carney's agent, William McCaffrey, said the parting is amicable all around. He said: "Gleason has other plans for next year and they don't include Carney. That's to Carney's liking, too."

Carney and Audrey Meadows have been Gleason's two chief mainstays in his rise to the top as a TV entertainer.

INGRID BERGMAN ENDS 7-YEAR EXILE

Actress Comes Home Won't See Daughter

PARIS (AP)—Ingrid Bergman flies to the United States tonight for the first time since she began her self-imposed exile seven years ago.

She will be in New York just 36 hours—long enough to receive the New York film critics' award as best actress of 1956 and to see "My Fair Lady," the Broadway hit musical.

Then she will rush back to Paris in time for the curtain on Monday night's performance of "Teg and Sympathy," the play in which she is starring with great success.

WON'T SEE DAUGHTER

The Swedish-born actress has not been in the U.S. since she left to make the film "Stromboli" with Roberto Rossellini in Italy. She and the Italian film director had a son and then married after Miss Bergman's divorce from her American husband, Dr. Peter Lindstrom.

Her daughter by Lindstrom, Jenny Ann (Pia), is a college student in Colorado but Miss Bergman says her visit will be too short for them to have their first meeting in years.

Miss Bergman's affair with Rossellini caused a storm of criticism. She never returned to Hollywood.

Detroit Police Censor Bans O'Hara's Prize-Winning Novel

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit police censorship of books—previously confined to the inexpensive 'paperback' editions—has been extended to the regular clothbound editions with the banning of John O'Hara's novel, Ten North Frederick.

The ban was announced by police commissioner Edward S. Piggins. It applies to both the paperback and hardback editions and to public libraries.

In announcing the ban Thursday, Piggins said: "This is not a book I would want my sons to read."

Inspector Melville E. Bullach, head of the 11-man police censor bureau last week ordered the paperback edition withdrawn from sale. He said the novel contained "obscene passages."

In New York City, Random House, which published the book, said it will fight the ban. O'Hara, in Williamsburg, Va., questioned whether Piggins was competent to determine what is "obscene."

The book, which chronicles the life of the scion of a wealthy Pennsylvania family who fails to realize his political ambitions, originally was published in November, 1955. It was given the national book award in fiction.

"I personally reviewed the book," Piggins said.

The commissioner said he is for freedom of the press and speech unless abuse endangered public morals.

The censors listed 33 pages scattered through the 408-page book as being wholly or in part too lurid for public reading.

Bullach, a graduate of Michigan State University with a degree in forestry, said he objects to a number of bedroom scenes in the book.

Bennett Cerf, publisher of Random House, said: "This kind of censorship is disgraceful."

Cerf said Random House will back its lawyers "to the hilt" in the fight against the ban.

O'Hara said he believes the banning of the hard-cover book came as a result of a statement he made last Saturday when the 50-cent reprint edition was banned.

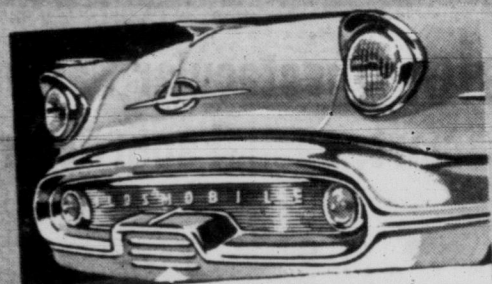

The statement was to the effect police should concentrate on crime.

Newcomer to City Candidate for CCF

Victor Williams, a resident of Victoria for only six months, will run as CCF candidate for the city in the federal election expected next June.

Small, dark and eloquent, the 40-year-old candidate is a radio producer and free-lance writer who used to be with the BBC in London. He migrated to Canada in 1952, and while working for a radio station at Edmonton, Alta., became active in CCF campaigning.

He was born at Bristol, England, of Welsh parents, and educated at Clifton College and Oxford University.

"I shall do all I can for the CCF in Canada," Mr. Williams said Thursday night when Victoria Federal CCF Association chose him as their candidate at a meeting in the Woodworth Hall.

Only other nomination was that of Bruce Loudon, well-known CCF campaigner and Victoria shipyard worker. After the ballots were counted, Mr. Loudon congratulated Mr. Williams on being chosen to "carry our banner into the federal field."

ROYAL MARINE

In his nomination speech, Mr. Williams said he had visited 23 countries on war service with the Royal Marines and in all of them he had heard people demanding socialism.

"True socialism is not politics, although the battle for truth and justice must be fought in the political field. It is a moral force—a philosophy of freedom as exemplified by men of such stature as Mahatma Gandhi of India."

NOT SAME

Mr. Williams said the CCF had a job of education to do in convincing many people that Socialism is not the same thing as Communism.

"South of the border, whenever people are afraid of something, they call it Communism. This coming federal election will give us an opportunity to spread a little enlightenment."

He predicted Canada will have a national health plan "before long" and would soon take it as much for granted as the old age pension. "Remember old age pensions were regarded as an abomination only 50 years ago," he said.

Bruce Loudon, who was introduced as a CCF campaigner since 1933, said the party would do all in its power to promote peace by education, by consultation with other nations and by compromise if necessary.

"If we cannot solve the problem of maintaining peace on this earth, we won't be around to worry about the other problems that concern us—better housing, better medical care, better working conditions and improved education.

"Another war would be the end of civilization as we know it. Yet the average American is very little concerned. He goes around like an ostrich with his head in the sand. 'The capitalist economy feeds on war. Never has it been able to function efficiently without war or the threat of war.'"

Mr. Loudon warned of the dangers of "dictatorship by capitalism."

Half World Starving—But Canada Told to Cut Output—Strachan

Half the world is prepared to go to war to get enough to eat, yet the Gordon economic commission "wants to cut down farm production," provincial CCF leader Robert Strachan said Thursday night.

"That is just one of many reasons why the CCF is so badly needed in Ottawa," he told a meeting of Victoria Federal CCF Association in the Woodworth Hall, Thursday night.

Mr. Strachan blamed the Liberal government in Ottawa for creating a fear of insecurity in a time of prosperity.

SECURITY LOSS

"The firemen on the Canadian Pacific railway went on strike because they saw their security being cut out from under them," he said. "Now there is fear of unemployment through automation. There is no need for this. Our ability to produce proves there is no need for unemployment."

He further charged the federal government with giving away Canada's power to the United States and said the B.C. Social Credit

Exchange New Notes

NEW DELHI (AP)—Informed sources say Prime Minister Nehru and President Eisenhower have exchanged new personal messages on the Middle East situation.

government was prepared to do the same with power from the Columbia River.

"The government in Ottawa needs a scare and the best way we can scare them is by electing a CCF member for Victoria," Mr. Strachan said amid laughter.

"That would really shake them."

"But what we really need is a government in Ottawa which will represent the producers of Canada. The Liberals don't represent the producers... and the Social Crediters in B.C. have proved that they don't."

BETWEEN TIMES By MONTE ROBERTS

I have been brooding lately about what is wrong with the business life of this modern world.

You must admit there is plenty of room for brooding on this subject. As a matter of fact, for catch-as-catch-can, free-style brooding, there is no better subject than what is wrong with the business life of this modern world.

If one is not careful, one can dissipate all one's brooding strength on this single subject.

To brood properly, it is necessary to concentrate on one (not two or three) on one phase only.

And the phase which I have chosen to concentrate on is the writing of memoranda, more popularly known as memos.

Memos are what the business life of this modern world can best get along without.

Memos are things which executives dictate (if they are big executives) or write on a typewriter (if they are medium-size executives) or write by hand (if they are little executives).

Memos are dictated or typed or written by the various-sized executives to prove to themselves and their employees that they are, indeed, executives.

An executive who could much more profitably employ his time to executing is all too inclined to write memos, instead. Instead of executing, that is, or picking up the laundry, as requested by his wife.

Memos rarely, if ever, accomplish anything, other than to fatten the ego of the executive who dictates, types, or writes same.

But, during recent years, the writing of memos has reached epidemic proportions.

Most offices have large bulletin boards devoted to the posting of memos. The wall space occupied by these bulletin boards could be put to much better use displaying calendar art of the whoo-who type.

One business office with which I am acquainted recently installed a memo board, and the first memo on the memo board stated "This board is for memos."

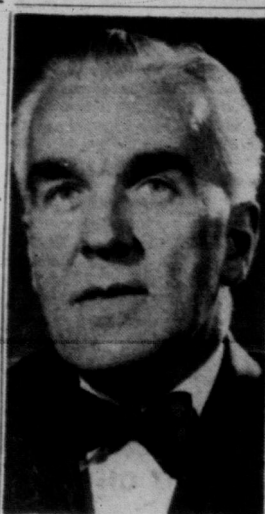

The memo was signed by the president, counter-signed by the managing director, counter-counter signed by the office manager, and all members of the staff were required to initial it, as having been duly read and contents noted.

The point I am trying to make is this: The business world could get along very well without memos. In fact, the business world is in danger of finding itself up to the armpits in memos.

If I were in a position to dictate to all the executives in this modern business world, the first thing I would do would be this:

I would issue a memo forbidding all memos.

Please initial and pass on.

'Quit Cabinet' Sinclair Told By Bennett

Premier Bennett today called for the resignation of federal Fisheries Minister James Sinclair saying that his refusal to retract "a false statement" concerning Lions Gate Bridge tolls had discredited him as the Commons member for North Vancouver.

The premier exploded angrily when told that Mr. Sinclair had refused to retract a statement he made in North Vancouver recently that tolls on the Lions Gate Bridge are being used to subsidize new bridges at Kelowna and Agassiz.

MISLEADING

"If he will not retract, I call on him to resign his portfolio. His statement is utterly without foundation and he stands before the bar of public opinion charged with deliberately trying to mislead the electorate of North Vancouver."

The premier said no revenue surplus from the Lions Gate Bridge is used to finance other bridges. On the contrary, the government was pouring hundreds of thousands of government funds into new bridges.

"Mr. Sinclair's statement is purely destructive. It is designed to throw sand in the gears."

When asked if the Agassiz Bridge is showing a profit, he replied:

"All I can say at the moment is that we are getting revenue from it."

Garland was arrested early Jan. 8 at Front and Wilson. Three other youths were in the car.

He pleaded guilty to another charge of driving without a licence and was fined $25.

Greater Victoria Water District Board will meet in Mayor Percy Scurrah's office at City Hall Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. to consider 1957 estimates. A police commission meeting will be held the same day at 2 p.m.

The mayor said. No date was set for a meeting of the Greater Victoria Civil Defence Control Board, the third intermunicipal committee headed by the mayor, but he said it would be soon.

New Glasgow on exercises, returning Jan. 30.

Legion Asks Tax Removal

School Books, Clothing Plan

The B.C. cabinet today was asked to amend the Social Services Tax Act to provide total tax exemption on all school books and school supplies.

The request came from a three-man delegation from the B.C. and Northwestern States Command of the Canadian Legion consisting of A. G. B. Lewis, chairman; R. B. Longridge, Victoria zone commander, and D. MacLennan, provincial secretary.

The delegation also asked for a tax exemption on children's clothing beyond the size covered by exemption.

The present tax exemption for garments extends to size 14x for girls and size 15 for boys. Boys' and girls' shoes up to size 6 are exempted, so are socks for girls up to 9 1/2 and for boys up to size 10.

"We feel there are many children of widows and pensioners still in school who require larger sizes by reason of their physical stature," Mr. Lewis told the cabinet.

OTHER REQUESTS

Other requests made to the cabinet were that:

1. Indian veterans who fought for Canada in time of war be given the same privileges on licensed premises of veterans' clubs as are given to all other members.

2. The Hospital Insurance Act be amended to provide that persons who resided in B.C. before enlisting should be considered as fully qualified under the residential regulations of the Hospital Insurance Act without payment of further fees.

Mr. Lewis pointed out that servicemen no longer have to wait one year before becoming eligible for hospital insurance coverage for their dependents, but can qualify within 21 days after arrival in B.C. on payment of a fee not exceeding $20.

"But this does not cover the problem of the B.C. serviceman who may be transferred out of this province and on his return and discharge must still reside for a period of one year before being considered eligible for coverage. This applies even though his family may have resided here during his absence."

Gun Painted for Long 2 Minutes

But the drama of the situation was saved by a long bluish-grey gun which was pointed steadily at the relief cashier for two long minutes.

Freddie told her story Thursday night at home, 2814 Parkview, surrounded by her brother, Fred; his wife and her mother, Mrs. Carla Prokisch. She was still pretty shaky.

"If it had been a smaller gun it wouldn't have been so bad," she said.

Here's her account of the holdup:

"I was sorting through my mail when I heard a customer coming. I didn't have enough time to look up completely because something was shoved through the window. It was a newspaper folded in from both sides.

"While I was looking, it opened and a gun was pointing at me.

"Ohhhh, I made—like this."

Freddie demonstrated with a hoarse, whispered cry.

"My mind just went dead. He must have realized I couldn't speak, so he helped me out.

"You be quiet and don't waste any more time," he said. "And put all the bills you have on top."

"You see it was pretty smart. He had his hand always on the handle of the gun, but it was just lying on the newspaper.

"I thought I'd better reach first for the 20s. About 15 minutes ago, I had counted them—I had 40—so I put about half on the newspaper, with some 10s.

'You Be Quiet and Don't Move'

"Then I figured maybe I hadn't given him enough and he'd be back, so I thought I'd give him some fives. I had about 10 or 12. I took them out and gave him those.

"I had a bunch of twos and I couldn't decide if that was enough. I was waiting for his command.

"I looked at him and we seemed to agree that it was enough.

"Now you be quiet and don't move," he said. "Go on." Fred interrupted. "Tell them what you answered.

Freddie blushed. "I said, 'Well, I hope I can. I don't feel very well.'"

"He wrapped the money up and gave me a firm look, like this"—she grimaced firmly over one shoulder—"Then he started walking away."

Freddie waved her arms wildly overhead to attract attention, then grabbed the glass of her cashier's cage. Finally, while the thief was still in the hallway, she shouted, "I was robbed!"

Freddie and her fellow employees gave chase but the bandit, who appeared to be familiar with the City Hall, escaped—probably through a side door leading to Pandora.

As he left the office, Freddie took careful note of his dress. He was wearing a beige colored mackinaw with large rectangles outlined in brown, his hat was grey or green and his trousers a grey tone.

'I'd Know Him if I Saw Him'

"I have the impression that if I could see him, I would know him," she said.

For Freddie—her real name is Fredericka—the experience was not as terrifying as the time in 1945 when she was expelled from Czechoslovakia with her family and 3,500,000 other Germans.

According to the Potsdam Agreement, all Germans had to return to their own country immediately. The refugees marched 40 miles to the German border, where they were searched by armed guards and removed of everything but the clothes they wore.

"Being a refugee was much worse than being robbed," said Freddie. "That lasted—this was just a moment."

The Scherbaum family settled in Heidelberg, where Mrs. Prokisch and Freddie, both trained pharmacists, somehow scraped up enough money to open another shop. They came to Canada in 1952.

CASHIER TELLS HER STORY

'Gunman Was No Louie, the Hood'

By DINAH KERR

Looking back, even Freddie had to agree the armed robbery of the City Hall Thursday noon was like something out of a comic opera.

The "badman" had a round, fresh face, soft voice, non-descript nose and eyes, and "wasn't very masculine looking." His chin wasn't far from the counter-top—he'd be about five feet six inches. All in all, he was no Louie the Hood.

A girl of discriminating taste, Freddie Scherbaum, on the other side of the cashier's counter, classified him as "not good—not bad."

On the other hand Freddie was a rather disconcerting hold-up victim. How many girls would feel qualms about short-changing a thief? And when the robber snarled, "Now you be quiet and don't move," would you have replied, "Well, I hope I can. I don't feel very well?"

As a matter of fact, Freddie and the baby-faced bandit did everything but have tea and crumpets while they negotiated the deal.

Teachers Get 5.4% Wage Hike

Part of Increase Now, Rest Paid in September

Greater Victoria's 648 teachers have been granted a 5.45 per cent wage increase totalling $151,120, it was announced today.

School board finance chairman Kenneth Leeming said settlement with Greater Victoria Teachers' Association means salary increases ranging from $150 to $360 annually.

The increase represents a boost in costs to Greater Victoria municipalities of just under the equivalent of one mill.

Salaries will now range from $2,200 to $6,420 depending on the qualifications held by the teacher.

New increments will be granted in two salary boosts, one effective this month and another in September. This is presumed to be aimed at discouraging teachers from leaving their jobs in summer vacation months.

ONE-YEAR CONTRACT

The new contract extends for one year. Negotiations began last October when teachers presented a request for salary increases totalling $320,000.

Mr. Leeming said factors affecting the settlement were a 3.09 per cent increase in living costs according to the consumer price index, and the need to stimulate recruitment of teachers.

He said he would appreciate meetings with municipal councils to outline the negotiations at the time the school board budget is presented.

B.C. School Trustees' Association throughout the province has endorsed a pattern of raised salaries in order to bring more and a better quality of teachers into the profession here.

Although Victoria is the first metropolitan area to conclude its negotiations, several smaller areas have reached agreement already—most of them receiving a higher percentage increase.

Mr. Leeming informed the school board that Creston school salaries are up 5.06 per cent, Powell River 6.5, Peace River South 6.5, Peace River North 8.6, Prince Rupert 16 per cent and Enderby 9.7 per cent.

Chairman of the GVTA salary committee, Thomas Curteis, said he felt the new scale would mean teachers would be paid for their earned qualifications regardless of the class level they are teaching.

"We have been pleased with the tenor of negotiations this year," said Mr. Curteis. "We appreciate the recognition by the school board of the ever-increasing teacher shortage."

"We are competing with better paying professions in industry for graduates and have not been faring too well of late."

"Taxpayers must be concerned about the tax dollar but they must also be concerned about the quality of teachers instructing our youngsters."

10% Wage Boost Turned Down In Vancouver

Elementary school teachers in Vancouver spurned a 10 per cent increase in salary offered by the Vancouver school board Thursday night but they shelved a plan to resign to enforce their wage demands.

Under the tabled plan, some 1,200 teachers would have requested help from the British Columbia Teachers' Federation, then resigned en masse to back their demands.

A spokesman for the teachers said today that the board's offer was not satisfactory but that teachers are still willing to negotiate.

The resignation plan will be brought up again if negotiations fail.

Chamber Endorses Mt. Tolmie Plan

A resolution requesting the Capital Improvement District Commission to allocate funds for the development of Mount Tolmie Park, was unanimously endorsed by a Chamber of Commerce directors' meeting at the Empress Hotel today.

The Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee, which is developing the Mount Tolmie summit park, is in need of funds to build a sidewalk, black top a parking area and for landscaping.

Sam Lane, chairman of the tourist group, told the meeting.

FIRST GATHERING ON ISLAND

Ocean Probers Interested In 'Anything Scientific'

Men and women whose profession is to probe the mysteries of the ocean depths are meeting at Esquimalt today and Saturday to exchange ideas, and plan a cycle of controlled studies.

The profession: oceanography, which can best be defined as sea-going science.

Attending the two-day conference are 50 sea scientists, members of the Pacific Northwest Oceanographers.

An annual affair, this is the first time the conference has been held on Vancouver Island. Host for the meeting is the Pacific Naval Laboratory, operating under the federal defence research board, with headquarters at HMC Dockyard.

Dr. W. L. Ford, superintendent of the PNL, describes the work of oceanographers as "interest in anything scientific to do with the sea—be it chemical, physical or biological."

OBSERVATIONS

The theme of this year's conference is "Times series in oceanographic observations." Dr. Ford explains this as a planned series of observations, taken over a long period, in the same general area of ocean, not only geographically, but in depth.

"This is a different operation than taking wide-spread tests over a large area," he said. "There is a tendency to go far afield in oceanographic observations. We hope this conference will remind us of the need for cyclical records."

Twenty-one oceanographers and student oceanographers arrived at Dockyard this morning aboard the University of Washington research vessel, Mv. Brown Bear.

Also attending the conference are representatives of the University of British Columbia and the Pacific Oceanographic Group, Nanaimo.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—The international boundary runs through Point Roberts. Are the boundary markers supplied by Canada or the U.S.A.?—G.D.

A.—When generations ago the boundary between Canada and the U.S. was marked, the cost, by agreement, was equally shared by the two countries. That rule was followed when the 49th parallel was marked across that odd little peninsula, Point Roberts.

There are five permanent markers on Point Roberts, and they are numbered from zero up. If U.S. residents wish to go by land to their homes on the point, they must cross Canadian territory.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

The wisdom of this woman's precaution, in my opinion, deserves favorable comment.

It's the Perfect Weather For Tasty Home-Made Soup

By PENNY SAVER

Frosty mornings, nippy afternoons and cold evenings add up to one thing in our house... home made soup! Made from good meat stock, the soup can be made with almost anything and everything, and usually is. Vegetables, noodles, spices and a touch of imagination, to taste... that's what you need for this meal starter. It can be the meal itself for lunch or early dinner, for it's chock full of goodness and energy-filled foods.

What vegetables do you like best in your soup? Of course, carrots are a must, for they give it a tempting color as well as a good taste. Bulk carrots are two pounds for a quarter, and two bunches cost 29 cents.

Parsnips, ground or grated in the soup are tasty, and cost 39 cents for two pounds. For a touch of sweetness, turnips are four pounds for a quarter. Celery is a little higher now, from 29 to 39 cents each. For a thicker soup, add barley, noodles and such, and another appetizing touch is a tin of tomatoes.

If, after a bowl (or two) of this delicious soup, you're still ready to eat a hearty meal, then you'll like some sprouts, green and leafy that are selling at two pounds for 45 cents. Green peas are the same price, and broccoli is 20 cents a pound.

Green onions for salads or to be chopped fine and whipped with your potatoes, are 12 cents a bunch. Green beans are 39 cents a pound, and green cabbage is 33 cents for three pounds. Red onions, a pleasant change in vegetables, are two pounds for 23 cents. Large heads of lettuce are 25 cents.

Rhubarb for really good-tasting desserts, in pies or puddings, is 29 cents. It's hot-house variety, and very good. Pineapples, ripe and sweet, are 39 cents each. This is another favorite food, wonderful with main or dessert course.

About throwing a bridal bouquet:

My wedding reception will take place in a one-story ranch house. How can I throw my bouquet under these circumstances where there is no stairway? Please don't laugh. To me, this is a very lovely and important custom, and I feel sure you can find a solution.

Louise Davis answers: The only thing you can do is to make the best of it. You can be sure that there have been many other brides whose receptions were held in ranch-type houses, and there will be many more to come. Changes in architecture and in our mode of life must bring necessary compromises. Throwing a bouquet is fun, but it is a frivolous tradition and relatively unimportant. The only alternative I can dream up is to stand back and toss (not throw) your bouquet, making sure that the crowd of young people is far enough back to

Men's clothes, from the drab past to the colorful present, was the appropriate subject that won the "oscar" for Mrs. F. G. Aldred at the annual Gentleman's Night of Arbutus Toastmistress' Club. Mrs. Aldred titled her four-minute talk "What Has Happened to Our Men."

The spur, for greatest improvement in speaking, went to Mrs. M. Beale for a three-minute talk, "The One That Got Away," in which she upheld the right of wives to accompany their menfolk on fishing trips.

More than 100 members and friends attended the gathering, held in the form of a dessert party, yesterday evening at the Pacific Club.

SPRING THEME

Ice Carving Smorgasbord Centrepiece

The gleaming crystal likeness of a life-size swan hand-carved in ice, its wings supporting a bouquet of bright, spring daffodils, was the focal point of the central buffet table last evening at the Empress Hotel's smorgasbord dinner.

A spring theme was carried out in the lavish arrangement of foods. A fairy castle, with high-reaching turrets, was, in reality, a jellied salad mold, and a glazed turkey, latticed in green, was doctored with radish rosebuds. An icing wheelbarrow filled with flowers and encircled by an icing picket fence topped a roast of beef and there was a handsome, glazed ham, outlined with cherries and orange sections and decorated with musical notes and a violin. Sprays of daffodils in silver vases centred individual tables.

Largest party at the smorgasbord dinner was a group of Lions Club Women's Auxiliary members, which included Mrs. C. Savage, Mrs. F. Grossmith, Mrs. A. Cann, Mrs. W. Cullimore, Mrs. G. Hinch, Mrs. J. E. Chaplin, Mrs. Cliff Rae, Mrs. M. F. Tait, Mrs. R. Free-land, Mrs. M. H. King, Mrs. N. Foster, Mrs. E. H. Emery, Mrs. Cecil Holt, Mrs. Percy Gilson, Mrs. Bruce Passmore, Mrs. E. Cross, Mrs. J. Roberts, Mrs. D. Ewing, Mrs. E. Hackett and Mrs. M. Sharp.

MANY PARTIES
Guests of Prince and Princess Akhaz were Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Edgell and their daughters, Misses Susan and Gillian Edgell. Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Watchorn dined with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert S. Roy.

Mrs. M. O'Connor entertained at dinner for Mr. and Mrs. Leo Shields, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Boak, Mr. and Mrs. D. Byass, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cantell and Mr. Lee Naylor of Seattle.

Also attending the dinner were Mrs. C. J. Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. A. du Gardein and Master Artie du Gardein.

Dr. and Mrs. H. S. Ford attended with Dr. and Mrs. M. I. Mackay. Sharing a table for four were Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Blannin, Mrs. Trevor Housser and Mrs. Thomas Fee, a visitor from Toronto.

The guest of honor was presented with a corsage of pink and white carnations and the rooms were decorated with daffodils and white chrysanthemums.

Spring Fashions From New York

By MARGARET NESS

NEW YORK—It's back to the natural waistline for spring with your face showing once again under off-the-face hats. The high-waisted Empire look is over and we're moving into the best features of the 1920-1930 era—with the ugly extravagances omitted. We'll still be ladylike but not as fragile. Belts are back, too, both self and leather, for suits and dresses. And the peg-top skirt is a new fashion trend. . . . the stronger tones of lilac, very pale beige and vivid prints are making a bid for top importance. . . . and there seems to be more navy than usual in recent spring collections, as seen in the couture group of the

New York Dress Institute during Press Fashion Week. . . . including such well-known names as Celi Chapman, Pauline Trigere, Hattie Carnegie, Claire McCardell, Ben Reig, Nettie Rosenstein, Oleg Cassini, Dior of New York.

It's a blonde hair season, says Adele Simpson, and meringue beige is featured in her collection in worsteds, tweeds and silks. But beige needs special make-up, says Madame Helena Rubinstein, who entertained the press at brunch in her penthouse home, to give a bright accent to this monotone color, with clear light bright red lipstick and rouge and subtle eye make-up.

Capsule notes on what 190 fashion editors (including 21 Canadian) have seen during fashion week: Suits, soft but slender, with Ben Zuckerman, a piece setter in tailored trends, pointing up both the boyish cutaway line and the straight or semi-fitted jacket. . . . capes from full-length to shoulder effects, with cape back to coats, as featured by Originala.

The costume look, even to three-piece coat, dress and bolero. . . . and chiffons everywhere for after-five and formal wear. . . . and dotted silks and satin organza, as well as sheer wools for daytime. Fashion is certainly saying it softly this spring.

TODAY'S RECIPE

POTATO SCONES

Grandma's recipe for tender, melt-in-your-mouth potato scones needs reviving. Your afternoon tea friends will delight in these old-time scones spread with any jelly.

One-half pound peeled potatoes, cooked, mashed; 1/2 teaspoon salt, flour, milk.

Knead as much flour into the potatoes as they will take up. Add just enough milk to moisten. Roll out on lightly floured board. Cut into serving sections. Bake on hot griddle (must be a heavy one) until brown on one side. Turn and brown other side. Baking takes about 10 minutes. Spread with butter and jelly. Roll up and serve.

Next time you're planning a frozen fish dinner, why not add a bit of zesty flavor by serving fresh cranberry sauce with your favorite fish sticks or cakes. For a variation, stir a bit of grated lemon rind into the basic sauce, or a little curry powder or horseradish. Let your taste be your guide!

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Q. "I would appreciate it so much if you would give us a few exercises which can be done without lying on the floor. I want some to tone and slim the waist and the hips."

A. You are fortunate because the bending exercises are best for slimming the waist and these can be done standing. There are dozens and dozens of them. This is a good one! Stand tall with your feet separated. Raise your arms overhead, one arm by each ear. Bend over and try to touch your fingertips to your left foot. Raise trunk and arms, and stretch upward. This time bend over and the wall and raise and lower the left leg.

Q. "What causes warts and is there any way to get rid of them? Has it to do with the blood?"

A. No one seems to know what causes warts. Have them removed by a dermatologist.

Q. "I have been sleeping in a bra for many years. Why do you say it should not be done?"

A. It seems to me that it might be too restricting or bruise the bust.

Biggest natural source of vitamin D is the liver of such salt-water fish as cod and halibut.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By FREEMAN KING
Gorge Vale Pack—Akela Edna Rankine invested Robin Goddard and Ricky Brown as Wolf Cubs at the regular meeting Wednesday. Arnold Smith, RCN, was introduced to the boys as the assistant leader for the pack.
Patrol System—Baden-Powell said that the patrol system is merely putting your boys into permanent gangs under the leadership of one of their members, which is their natural organization, whether bent on mischief or amusement. It does not particularly matter if the patrol has four or six boys in it; leave it to the natural group that run together and can play together. For it is the patrol that is the unit that should be worked with.
Give your patrol leaders a chance to do things themselves and they will not let you down.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prize? Then Ask Andy.
Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and at the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.
Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

How Do Snakes Crawl?
Draw a picture of a snake crawling along the ground. Did you make his graceful curves go up and down in hills and valleys? If so, you will have to draw Mr. Snake all over again. For his curves move from side to side. Almost all snakes travel with their tumblers touching the ground from head to tail. The sidewinder lifts up his loops a little, but not much, from the ground. But no snake travels by turning himself into hills and valleys.

As you watch a snake, crawling looks easy. You forget he has no feet, no arms or legs to help him along. But not only can he crawl, chances are he can swim and also climb a tree. He even may know more than one way to crawl along the ground.
To crawl, a snake must wave the long, supple backbone that runs from his head to his tail. Countless pairs of ribs are fixed to that backbone. They loop around and under his body like a tube-shaped cage. As he makes each curve, the ribs close up on one side and spread apart on the opposite side. There are muscles fixed to all these bones and also to the skin. To slither through a curve, the snake stretches the muscles along one side and shrinks them up short on the other. This is the most popular way for a snake to crawl. He moves along making wavy curves from his head to his tail.
The worst problem Mr. Snake has is to keep a grip on the ground. His skin is criss-crossed in little grooves which help. But over a sheet of glass he slips and slides, making no progress at all. Lucky for him there are no sheets of glass on the ground outdoors. In the wild, he can find plenty of solid pegs to keep him from slipping and help him along. He pushes his curves against the grasses, brush, stones, sticks and rough ground.
Sand is about the hardest surface for a snake in the wild to cross. Often the sand is not firm enough for the curves to press against. You can see what he tries to do in the trail he leaves behind him. There is a little bank of sand along a rim of each curve. It is just where you would expect him to push it up, along the back of the curve where he can shove himself forward against it. You can tell from a snake trail in which direction a snake was traveling. His trail in the fields is harder to find. Here he uses the stones and grasses to push against and passes on his way.

Desert rattlesnakes often caterpillar their way over the sand. They use a very complicated muscle movement to edge their way along a bit at a time. Their rough skin also helps to keep a grip and stop Mr. Rattler from slipping back.
Some snakes can travel by curling up into a tight S-shape and lunging forward as they straighten themselves out. This makes for a very jerky method of traveling. The sidewinder is a snake that travels by looping himself up and straightening out. However, he holds the loops at either side just above the ground.

WOMEN'S PLAYDOWNS

Duncan, Nanaimo Lead in Curling

DUNCAN—Defending champion Marg Fuller of Nanaimo and a Duncan rink skipped by Beulah Gilday are leading in playdowns for the right to represent Vancouver Island in the provincial women's curling final.

Both rinks started today's play in the zone playoffs with four straight victories in the round-robin series.

Only other rink with a chance to grab the Island championship is the Nanaimo quartet skipped by Minnie Holm, which has scored two victories in three games.

Victoria rinks have fared poorly in opening games of the playdown. Ann Langley has posted one win in three tries while Mary Beattie and Mary McKay have failed to win in three and four games respectively.

Seven rinks are contesting the Island playdown. Three are from Victoria and Duncan and Nanaimo each have two entries. Port Alberni is not represented.

Homeless Seaman Taken Off Ship, Starts Fight to Stay in Canada

VANCOUVER (CP)—A young man without a country, virtually a prisoner aboard a deep-sea freighter for the last 16 months, will take the first step here today in a legal battle to establish domicile in Canada.

Donald S. White, counsel for stowaway Christian George Hanna, 23, will apply in the Supreme Court chambers for a writ of habeas corpus to allow him to apply for domicile. Mr. White said he was acting for Hanna on instruction in a letter received from him.

Lawyer Arthur MacLennan, counsel for the immigration department, said Thursday there is "no doubt" the department will oppose Mr. White's application.

Earlier this week, Immigration Minister Pickersgill said in Ottawa that Hanna "is in no way admissible" under the Immigration Act.

LEFT FLOATING PRISON

Mr. White brought the short, swarthy stowaway to Vancouver Thursday shortly after escorting him from the Norwegian freighter Gudveig which was loading lumber at Port Alberni on Vancouver Island. Hanna crept aboard the Gudveig at Beirut, Lebanon.

Last Tuesday the ship was believed to have left Port Alberni for the United Kingdom but it only shifted berths.

Hanna says he was born at sea and has no education. He cannot remember his Liberian father. His mother, a native of French Somaliland, died when he was six. The youth accepted his liberation from the freighter quietly. "It's nice," he said and added: "Thank you very much, people of Vancouver and thank you very much, people of Canada."

NO PROOF

Hanna has no birth certificate, passport, visa or any papers to prove domicile anywhere. Mr. White contends his request to land in Canada was not given a proper hearing.

Hanna was released to the custody of Mr. White.

White and Hanna drove from Port Alberni to Nanaimo, where they put up at a motel for a few hours before boarding a ferry for Vancouver.

Hanna had a haircut—his first in two months—did some window shopping and went to a clinic for X-rays requested by his counsel.

At noon he had a thorough check-up at another clinic. Since his long shipboard exile began, Hanna has been turned away at Portsmouth, England, five times, Casablanca, Rotterdam, Beirut, Norfolk and Philadelphia. He has been through the Panama Canal four times.

Top Forestry Instructor Retiring

James Alexander Pedley is retiring at the end of January after 31 years in the B.C. Forest Service.

He entered the service in March, 1926, as a patrolman at Babine Lake and in 1927 was appointed assistant ranger at Francois Lake. The following year he was made ranger for the district.

In 1933, he was transferred to Prince Rupert and subsequently to the Revelstoke ranger district. He was promoted to fire inspector in the Kamloops district in 1937 and two years later was made supervisor of fire protection in the Vancouver district.

In 1945 he was transferred to the newly-established forest service ranger school at Green Timbers

as instructor and assistant to the forester-in-charge of the school. Later he served as special instructor in forest protection at the Faculty of Forestry, University of British Columbia.

He assumed charge of the ranger school in 1952 and remained there until 1955, when he undertook revision of the forest service operations manual.

High riggers, the glamor boys of the logging industry who top giant spar trees, are on their way out.

The traditional spar tree is being replaced by a steel mast, and there is no need for climbing at all. If the rigger must go to the top of the mast, for inspections or repair of equipment, he rides up on a steel cable.

The high-lead method of logging now generally used on Vancouver Island calls for a block, or pulley, to be hung at the top of a large, sturdy tree known as a spar tree. Having the steel cable used to haul logs to the truck road set high in the air makes logging easier, since logs being pulled along the ground tend to ride up and over obstructions.

Preparation of the spar tree was up to the rigger, who would don belt and climbing spurs, climb the tree to a height of about 120 feet, then cut off the bushy top while bystanders goggled down below.

On his next climb up he would hang a light block at the top of the tree, then run a light cable through it and back down to a winch, thus providing himself with an elevator for further trips to the top.

His next job would be to hang guy-lines on the tree so it could stand the strain of logging, and put all other rigging in place, a job that would take from one to three days. A variant of this system, usually used where a proper spar tree is not on the proper spot, is to top and brace a smaller tree, then use it to raise a spar tree.

This is more complicated and time-consuming, and becomes even more so when it is found necessary to raise a raising tree.

Ready to Start Operation Immediately

When the steel spar is used, it is ready to go almost immediately. After the last log is yarded and loaded, the guy-lines are released and the spar lowered backward on an A-frame to rest on the frame at one end of the yarding donkey, and a secondary support at the other.

The whole "shebang" then is towed along the road by tractor, the yarding donkey rolls

Shovel Driver Crushed To Death

CAMPBELL RIVER — Charles Farley McRae, 28-year-old construction worker, was killed almost instantly Thursday when the power shovel he was operating rolled over as the ground underneath it gave way.

The accident occurred at 3.15 a.m. on the Buttle Lake road project. A snow-covered bank collapsed and he was trapped and crushed in the cab of the shovel.

An inquest will be held Saturday. McRae is survived by his widow and two children at Langley, on the mainland.

Driver Absolved In Traffic Death At Port Alberni

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—John Gillis, driver of a car which killed 43-year-old William H. Kendrick a week ago, was absolved of blame in the traffic death by a coroner's inquest here Thursday.

Gillis told the inquest he swerved to miss the victim before striking him.

Cowichan to Press Fight For New 45-Bed Hospital

LAKE COWICHAN — Executive of Lake Cowichan Hospital Association decided Wednesday night to continue its efforts to build a hospital here.

Directors said their unanimous decision is the "only feasible solution to the problem of providing hospital accommodation for the Cowichan Lake district."

It means the executive is in opposition to Health Minister Eric Martin, who favors a recommendation by a BCHHS investigating committee that a new hospital in Duncan must have precedence in the district.

HAVE MONEY

The Cowichan Lake communities have the money to start their hospital, and Duncan has not.

Background of the current hospital impasse in the Duncan-Lake Cowichan district was summarized as follows by Joseph Reilly, member of the hospital association executive:

"Nine years ago the Duncan hospital board was given permission to proceed with plans for a new hospital. This permission was renewed by Mr. Martin last fall when he insisted the Duncan district must include Lake Cowichan. Mr. Martin already knew Lake Cowichan had shown its independence by subscribing funds that actually amount to a total of some $122,000 to build a hospital of its own.

"Since that date the best, most far-sighted, hard-working committee possible to gather together has attempted to interest the people of Duncan and area in constructing a 30-bed addition to their hospital, to cost the taxpayers some $286,000.

TOTAL FAILURE

"The net result of this group's efforts, which have been first class in every way, has been complete and total failure. Now Mr. Martin comes forth with a scheme which can cost very little less than $1,000,000 to the same taxpayers. One can only assume its chances for success.

"One hope would seem to be to have the taxpayers of Lake Cowichan and North Cowichan assume a disproportionate amount of construction costs. Both of these districts, with a small proportion of bed occupancy, would be asked to pay a rather large proportion of costs. Lake Cowichan, because of the assessment totals, would pay over 50 per cent of costs and will receive roughly 30 per cent of bed occupancy.

"These figures, which are emphasized in the BCHHS report, seem to be loaded with wrong impressions.

CAMPBELL RIVER CORP. FILES SLANDER SUIT

"The wish of the people has been on record for Mr. Martin all along the line, both in Duncan and Lake Cowichan. He may have some reason to maintain his present attitude, but it does not seem to be humanitarianism. The need for beds exists and the people of Lake Cowichan are willing to pay their share, providing they are able to have the local service they are entitled to.

"The minister has stated that if the money could not be raised in Duncan, a second look at Lake Cowichan would be necessary. It seems now is the time for the second look."

CAMPBELL RIVER—Campbell River Development Corporation has issued a writ against J. W. Baikie claiming damages and slander.

It arises from alleged derogatory statements made about the corporation at a public meeting here last year. J. Ronald Grant, Victoria lawyer, is acting for the corporation.

Plaintiff is sponsor of a $400,000 plan for development of the waterfront as a business and recreation centre.

Victorian New Head Of Airmen

H. J. McKay of Victoria was elected president of Vancouver Island Air Force Officers' Association at its annual meeting Wednesday night in RCAF Urban Centre officers' mess.

Retiring vice-president Owen Nicolls reported the association operated successfully in 1956 and noted the Battle of Britain dinner in September was one of the association's outstanding events, with record attendance.

Vice-president is R. Hamill, treasurer J. Omand, secretary W. de Macedo, membership chairman P. Frith and publicity chairman L. V. Flury.

SHE WARN'T NO PISTOL- PACKIN' MAMA

For a moment at City Hall this morning employees thought it had happened again.
Miss Freddie Scherbaum, victim of a $965 holdup man Thursday, was back in the cashier's cage when a woman approached. She laid a heavy silver purse on the counter with a bang.
Miss Scherbaum threw her hands into the air with a scream.
When order was restored and the woman had paid her water bill, Miss Scherbaum went home for the day.

Thug's Jacket On Road

By PETER MURRAY
A hat and jacket, worn by the noon-hour bandit who took $965 from a City Hall cashier at gunpoint Thursday, gave police their only new lead today in the smoothly-executed robbery.
The clothing was found in the Lake Hill district at 12.30 p.m., about 10 minutes after the robbery.
Police were not notified of the discovery until five hours later, however.

On Roadway

A man, not identified by police, saw them lying on the roadway as he was driving back to work from his home nearby. He reported his find to Saanich police at 5 p.m., after learning of the robbery.
A woodsman's-type jacket, with beige squares and brown stripes, was found a short distance away from a grey fedora hat.

Chief Blackstock said they had been identified positively as the clothing worn by the bandit.
Later investigation by city detectives disclosed that the hat and coat had been purchased in a city department store a short time before the hold-up.
"They were bought just for the job," Chief Blackstock said.

Thrown From Car
It was indicated the bandit threw the clothing from a car as he drove along Saanich Road after fleeing from City Hall.
It was not known Thursday whether the man, described as between 35 and 40, medium build, had a get-away car. He was last seen striding down a hallway toward the Pandora Street entrance of City Hall.
In some respects, the robbery resembled a holdup at the Royal Bank of Canada directly across the street from City Hall Jan. 7.

Leonard Wilson, 23, of Duncan, who has confessed the robbery, took $1,340 from a cashier and was not seen after he left the bank doors. He was captured in Seattle the next day after a tip from a TCA passenger agent at Pat Bay Airport. He is in custody awaiting sentence.
City police followed up all leads and tips in Thursday's holdup.

Men Questioned
A number of men wearing jackets similar to the one on the bandit described by cashier Fredericka Scherbaum were stopped on the street and questioned.
Miss Scherbaum and another office employee who saw the bandit, Linda Barker, 1325

Historic Flight Completed by H-Bomb Jets

(UP and AP Dispatches)

MARCH AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. — Three B-52 Stratofortresses, America's inter-continental hydrogen bomb carriers, today completed the first non-stop jet flight around the world.

The mammoth planes, refueling in the air, made the historic 24,325-mile flight in the unofficial time of 45 hours, 19 minutes.

This was less than half the 94 hours, one minute required by Lucky Lady II, on the first non-stop globe-girdling journey in 1949.

The planes flew at an average speed of 525 miles an hour. The flight left Castle Air Force Base, Calif., at about 1 p.m. Jan. 16. They landed here at 10.19 a.m. today.

The air force said a fourth plane, following a previously prepared plan, left the formation over Africa and landed in Britain "on schedule."

The big eight-jet bombers were refueled three times in flight by tanker planes.

The route took the bombers; commanded by Major-General Archie J. Old Jr., across the United States to Newfoundland, over the Atlantic to French Morocco; over the city of Dhahran in Saudi Arabia; along the coasts of India and Ceylon; near the Malay peninsula; over the Philippines and Guam before heading over the eastern Pacific area.

Some of the refuelings were at night and some in bad weather, according to air force spokesman Maj. Jack Steffen, "but this failed to hamper the tanker operation."

unofficial air force sources that the planes had received their refueling lines somewhere over the eastern Mediterranean, again over Saudi Arabia, and the last time over the Philippines before heading for home.

Russia, Red China Join To Oppose Ike Doctrine

MOSCOW (UP)—The Soviet Union and Red China jointly promised "necessary support" today to Middle East countries in resisting the "colonial policies" of the Eisenhower doctrine.

In a 2,500-word communique signed in the Kremlin this evening by Chinese Premier Chou En-Lai and Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin, both countries pledged to provide "the necessary support to the people of the Near and Middle East in order to avoid aggression and interference in the affairs of the countries of this region."

The communique did not indicate what form this aid would take. After signing it, Chou departed by plane to resume the southeast Asian tour which he interrupted last month for his Moscow talks.

Both countries also demanded that Britain, France and Israel pay for the damage caused by their "aggressive action" against Egypt.

The communique contains six general points, none of which represents any change from previously-stated Soviet-Chinese policy.

The analysis of the international situation follows the customary line of accusing the United States, Britain and France of continuing the cold war and seeking to undermine the unity of "the socialist camp."

The explosion rattled windows in Olympia, nine miles away from the plant.

Man Without Country Wins Board Hearing

(See Page 26)
VANCOUVER (CP) — Christian Hanna, 23-year-old stow-away and man without a country, was refused a writ of habeas corpus in Supreme Court today.

But the slight, swarthy migrant did win a hearing before an immigration board, set for later today.

Mr. Justice J. V. Clynne rejected the appeal for a writ after Vancouver lawyer Donald S. White obtained an order to have Hanna released from the Norwegian freighter Gudveig, aboard which he had been imprisoned for 15 months.

Hanna was released from the ship, docked at Port Alberni, Thursday and escorted to Vancouver by the 26-year-old lawyer who has taken up the refugee's case.

CPA to Equip Planes With Weather Radar

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadian Pacific Airlines announced today that it is having $325,000 worth of new airborne weather radar installed in 13 new aircraft under construction in the United States and England.

CPA said it will be the first commercial Canadian airliner to use the radar.

PM Refuses To Be Drawn Out On Rumored Hike in Pensions

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent today left the Commons guessing about whether the government plans to increase the $40 monthly old-age pension.

He said he won't interpret a statement made Thursday by Health Minister Martin, which Progressive Conservative leader John Diefenbaker described today as "optimistic."

But he denied a suggestion by George Hees (PC—Toronto-Broadview) that Liberal members have been tipped off to a coming rise and advised to make pre-election speeches in that vein.

Mr. Hees forecast an increase in the pension to $55 a month before the general election, which he predicted would be held Monday, June 17.

On the basis of current indications, it appears there will be room in the 1957-58 budget—generally conceded as the last before a general election—for major tax reductions, increased social benefits such as higher old age pensions, or another big surplus.

Current thinking, however, is that the government must continue to maintain a tight rein on the country's money supply to fight inflation. That would work against any immediate large-scale tax reductions.

The budget is expected before the end of March.

'Epoch-Making Event' Says General

Lemay was waiting for the heroic airmen of his command when they landed. He had citations and decorations ready for them, praising them for establishing "a record that will go down in the annals of aviation history."

"This epoch-making event," the citation read, "is indicative of the extraordinary skill, professional airmanship, selfless determination and dedication of each participating."

"It (the flight) has opened the skies to unforeseen advancements in the field of aviation."

Refueling was done by the Air Force's KC97 aerial tankers. B-52s were first delivered to the strategic air command in June, 1955, replacing the propeller-jet B-36s as the backbone of America's heavy bomber force. They have more than doubled the speed and altitude performance of the B-36s.

Two of the three planes carried nine crew members each, the other carried eight.

About 30 relatives and dependents of the crew members were on hand at the field to greet them.

"When I learned of the flight I thought it was wonderful that my husband was able to participate in such an historic event," said Mrs. Mary Dzieriski, wife of Maj. Anthony Dzieriski, radar operator.

Mrs. Marilyn Wooten, wife of Maj. Albert Wooten, navigator-observer, said "I had no idea why I was coming here except to meet my husband. The Air Force notified me Thursday only that he was coming in to complete a mission."

Bomber Details; Past World Trips

Most details of the B-52 bomber are classified for security purposes.

Its main dimensions are: wing span, 185 feet; length, 156 feet 6 inches; height over tail, 48 feet 3 1/2 inches.

Its loaded weight is 350,000 pounds. Maximum speed is given as "over 600 miles an hour" and its service ceiling as 50,000 feet.

It was in 1872 that people first started thinking about, writing about and getting about the business of circling the globe.

Jules Verne, French novelist, in 1872 described an imaginary trip by Phileas Fogg in "Around the World in 80 Days." In 1889, 23,452 miles in 94 hours, 1 actual trip in 72 days. In 1890 George Francis Train of New York completed the journey in 67 days.

By 1913 John Henry Mears had reduced the time to 35 days. Airplanes first got into the act in 1924, a U.S. army biplane completing the trip in 175 days (14 days 15 hours actual flying time).

In 1931 Wiley Post piloted a monoplane "Winnie Mae" around the northern air circumference of the world (15,474 miles) in 8 days, 15 hours, 51 minutes.

Ontario Said Ready To Enter Health Plan

Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Expectations are strong within government circles here that the province of Ontario within a short period will declare itself "in" on the federal government's national hospitalization insurance plan.

Negotiations are continuing between the federal government and Premier Leslie Frost's administration and it is believed that difficulties standing in the way of the Ontario government's participation may soon be surmounted.

The Ontario government is expected in the Throne Speech at the opening of the Ontario legislative assembly session at the end of this month to declare its readiness to enter into a hospitalization insurance plan with Ottawa. But it will add the rider that certain modifications must be made in the federal plan.

An exchange of views between the federal and Ontario provincial authorities are underway presumably aimed at bringing about the desired modifications. They may result in Hon. Paul Martin, minister of national health, being placed in a position where he can make an early announcement involving the provinces.

Cadboro Bay, Oak Bay Merger Wrong, Says Ash

It is a fallacy for Cadboro Bay residents to think they would gain by seceding from Saanich to join Oak Bay, Saanich Reeve Arthur Ash said today.

The logical municipality for them to join is the city of Victoria, he pointed out—being the largest in the area and centre of the metropolitan area to which it will one day lend its name—the city of Greater Victoria.

Reports circulated recently claim a movement in the 'Bay area to revive interest in secession, rejected by Oak Bay in 1950.

The discussion apparently lacks direction, planning and organization even though a number of people in Cadboro Bay have indicated favor of the proposal.

"I don't think there is a definite agitation," said Arnold Edmonds, secretary-treasurer of the Cadboro Bay Ratepayers' Association.

JOIN UP
"General opinion seems to be rather than the higgledy-piggledy mess of four or five municipalities it might be better to join up."

He agreed there is merit in the idea of Cadboro Bay becoming part of Oak Bay, but felt "if such a thing did occur it would probably have to be done by areas, such as the Panhandle."

"I don't think the effort has the enthusiasm it had in 1950," when referendums were held in Saanich and Oak Bay.

Mr. Edmonds took the stand that residents prefer to stay with "the devil they know rather than take on a new one."

He said he felt in a position to gauge opinion of residents in the 'Bay area better than other, non-committal spokesmen since he is an executive member of the ratepayers' association.

Reeve Ash said: "If people think they're going to get more from Oak Bay than from Saanich, it's a fallacy. They'd get their roads and sewers and so on in time, but it would be by local improvement and they can get that in Saanich."

Yachting Post

Also elected to office were: Bud Day, Vancouver, Pacific Coast vice-president, and Culver Riley, Winnipeg, Western province vice-president.

MacLeod, who leaves the city by air Jan. 22 for meetings in Toronto Jan. 24-25. The organization represents 8,300 life underwriters in 77 Canadian centres.

Mr. Martin told the Commons earlier this week that he hoped that "before too many days are out we shall perhaps be able to make further observations on the possible implementation of the federal scheme."

... GUNMAN

Kings Road, were driven to a number of spots in the downtown area by detectives to identify men who had been stopped.

All were released on the spot, and no one was brought to the police station for questioning.

Detectives made a search through a downtown theatre during the afternoon after a report that a man answering the bandit's description had gone in not long after the hold-up. The report proved unfounded.

Depots Checked
Plainclothesmen also checked Vancouver Island Coach Lines depot, the CPR dock, hotels, rooming houses and beer parlors.

The RCMP was detailed to keep watch on Pat Bay Airport. RCMP plainclothesmen also joined in the investigation.

Police said the description of the bandit's gun given by Miss Scherbaum was similar to a .38 blue steel target pistol.

Alarm Delayed
It was revealed also that police were hindered by a delay in sounding the alarm from City Hall.

The telephone call from relief operator on the City Hall switchboard went to Chief Blackstock's office where it was taken by typist Suzanne Buttrely.

Miss Buttrely relayed the information to the police charge office down the hall.

The sum of $965, taken in the hold-up, was turned over to the City Hall treasury today by the Fidelity Insurance Co. of Canada.

The high-speed negotiations were handled by Ker and Stephenson officials James Cleland and A. H. Fitzgerald.

Pearson suggested that the UN Emergency Force might station units in these areas until permanent measures can be worked out to ensure that no border raids are carried out and that free shippings are maintained in the gulf, which Israel claims would be menaced by Egypt.

The Canadian minister emphasized to the delegates that the new withdrawal resolution would be useless if it led only to "a withdrawal... to the old state of affairs."

"Surely there must be no return to the conditions—if we can avoid it—which helped to provoke the initial military action," he said.

Winds, Snow Still Ripping Deserted Ferry

PORT AUX BASQUES, Nfld. (CP)—The Newfoundland ferry Cabot Strait lay listing, damaged and crewless on a sand bar six miles west of here today, her fate in the hands of wind and tide.

The Canadian National Railway operators of the ship, pondered the prospect of salvaging mail and other cargo and the ship herself if the weather and sea are kind.

The 51 passengers and crew on the ferry when she grounded in an 80-mile-an-hour blizzard Thursday morning slept safely ashore Thursday night. They were rescued in dories through rolling surf. Capt. Edward O'Keefe and the last of his crew, came off just before nightfall. Through the night a watching party kept an eye on the ship from shore, about 100 yards distant. But the ferry, iced from topmast to waterline, was often hidden from sight by swirling snow. A skeleton crew was to be put aboard today.

Damascus in Syria is believed to be the oldest continuously inhabited city in the world.

Doug Peden OUTDOOR REPORT

Persuasive salesmen have become an accepted part of almost every phase of modern life.

Given time to develop their sales pitch, some of those articulate gentlemen are able to convince us we are living perilously close to the dark ages if we don't use their merchandise. Often we learn too late that we have been talked into buying something which we would just as soon do without.

Not all salesmen are concerned with direct selling. Some of the best operate in the public relations field.

Perhaps one of the best jobs of selling in recent years has been done by some of those interested in construction of large dams on British Columbia rivers.

A succession of reports outlining how dams and survival of fish runs may be compatible have just about sold many people on the belief that we can have major dams and major salmon runs on the same rivers.

It has been suggested that fish on spawning runs could be moved past dams by fishways, hydraulic lifts or by trucking methods and that salmon fry migrating downstream could be safely flushed through turbines, or steered into fishways by electric currents, light, odors or chain reflectors. It has also been proposed that runs lost through dams could be replaced by diverting fish to tributary streams or by fish hatcheries.

Sometimes the arguments sound convincing. But the fact remains that present methods will not give us perpetual salmon runs and dams over 100 feet high on the same river.

Rapid industrial growth of British Columbia has resulted in a tremendous demand on the water-power resources of the province. And consideration is being given to hydro-electric development of some of our larger rivers.

No one will dispute that power development must accompany the industrial expansion. We are going to have more dams. The question is how well we can protect our fish.

It is easy for those interested in production of electrical power to assure the public that salmon runs will not be unduly depleted by dams. Often it is easy to forget that our salmon represent a multi-million-dollar resource that needs little care other than maintaining spawning streams in near-natural condition.

Dr. Peter Larkin, a professor at the University of British Columbia, this week sounded a reminder that despite extensive research there is still no solution to the problem of getting salmon runs to exist on the same river as a major power dam.

Dr. Larkin, a member of the UBC Fisheries Institute, told the Vancouver Angling and Game Club that it is difficult if not impossible to attract adult salmon into artificial fishways around dams.

Nor is there yet any solution to the even more serious problem of guiding young salmon downstream without huge losses from power turbines and spillways.

He quickly dismissed the suggestions of tributary streams and fish hatcheries. Any tributary that could sustain a diverted run would have supported fish under normal conditions, he told the meeting, and hatcheries could not hope to match the productivity of major spawning streams.

More dams appear inevitable, but it is hoped they will be kept away from our main salmon rivers until a real solution has been found.

Research has shown that a delay of 12 days is enough to prevent salmon from reaching their spawning grounds under normal stream conditions. If they are unduly delayed, the result could be no spawning, no young salmon and, eventually, no salmon run.

The value of our commercial and sports fishing is well known and one doesn't have to look too far south to see the effects of a series of dams on the runs of sockeye and spring salmon to the Columbia River.

Although research may eventually provide the answer, do we have the right to risk destroying for future British Columbians any large part of our great salmon resources?

History of squash racquets in Victoria reaches a milestone today when competition opens in the first Pacific coast tournament ever to be held in the city.

Staged by the Victoria Squash Club, the annual tourney has attracted a record number of entrants for a squash meet in the Pacific Northwest. A total of 127 racket-wielders, including almost 100 from outside Victoria, will be seeking championships in six divisions.

Play in "A," "B" and veterans' classes will be held at the host club's Sussex Hotel courts, and competitors in "C," "D" and ladies' classes will perform at the HMCS Naden courts. Finals in all divisions will be played at the Sussex courts Sunday.

Largest contingent of visitors will come from Seattle early tonight. Thirty-five Sound City swingers will arrive by chartered plane and expect to be in action by 9. Other entrants will arrive from Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland and Vancouver.

DEFENDS TITLE

Defending the men's "A" class championship will be Gene Hoover of Vancouver, who upset second-seeded Ted Clarke of Seattle in last year's final. Third-seeded in "A" class is Bill Babson of Portland and Harry Bell-Irving of Vancouver is seeded fourth.

Among the California contestants are Walter Pettitt and veteran Ralph Miller, both of San Francisco.

Jim Barber has drawn the top seeding in "B" class and Keray Jones tops the ratings in "C" class. Vancouver's Art Proctor is seeded first in "D" class, and Mrs. Lavinia Greenwood of the Victoria club heads the ladies' seedings.

Held in conjunction with the tourney will be the annual meeting of the Pacific Coast Squash Association. The meeting will be held at the Pacific Club at noon Saturday.

Kramer Discovers Tennis Gold Mine

Lawsuit Could Wreck Pro Grid

WASHINGTON (AP)—A pro football lawyer said Thursday the National Football League "may very well be destroyed" if the U.S. Supreme Court orders trial of a suit charging the league with anti-trust law violations.

Bernard I. Nordlinger told the high court that "harassment and utter chaos" might result.

NFL lawyers fought an appeal by William Radovich, a former University of Southern California and pro guard, whose bid for $105,000 damages was dismissed in lower federal courts.

Radovich contended he was blacklisted for jumping from Detroit Lions to Los Angeles Rams of the now-folded All-America Conference in 1946. He charged the NFL seeks to monopolize the professional grid sport. And Maxwell Keith, his San Francisco lawyer, asked the Supreme Court to order a trial on merits of the complaint.

District and circuit courts at San Francisco tossed out the suit, saying football was a team sport like baseball and thus entitled to exemption from the anti-trust laws.

PISONI SIGNS

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Outfielder Jim Pisoni, obtained by the Kansas City Athletics late last season from Vancouver of the Pacific Coast League, signed his 1957 contract with the American League club Wednesday.

Rarely have there been such crowds at professional tennis matches as are turning out to see Ken Rosewall and Pancho Gonzales play singles.

"It's like running for mayor hoping for 20 per cent," beamed promoter Kramer as he talked about his latest pro tour.

Already Kramer can see gross take equal to at least $130,000 from 10 Rosewall-Gonzales clashes in Australia and New Zealand.

"We will not about 60 per cent of that," he said.

Kramer promised Rosewall a minimum of $67,000 for 13 months pro play when the Aussie Davis Cup star turned pro after the challenge round last month.

SERIES EVEN

So far Rosewall and Gonzales have clashed only twice in Melbourne with the score 1-1. They're scheduled for 100 meetings.

Those two Melbourne nights netted nearly $41,000 from crowds of about 12,000 on the first night and 8,000 on the second night which was dull and showery. The two meet here tonight.

"Madison Square Garden in New York along with Montreal (Big Forum) and Toronto Maple Leaf Gardens are the only places where bigger crowds than in Australia have seen professional matches," Kramer said. "You could play in the 10 best cities in the United States and not get these crowds in any one city."

Kramer said the enthusiasm of the Australians about his troupe is surprising because newspapers had not rated Rosewall a big player.

"But people like to see the little fellow win and Rosewall is playing great tennis," he said.

Weetman's Flurry Startles Bookies

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex. (UP)—Everything is in black and white on the odds board in the $15,000 Caliente Open Golf Tournament and the bookmakers today listed these prices on the four men tied for the leadership at the start of the second round.

Defending champion Mike Souchak, 6-1; Julius Boros, Mid-pines, N.C., 12-1; Harry Weet-man, Croydon, England, 15-1 and Len Kennett, Camp Pen-leton, Calif., 30-1. The four shotmakers each had 68, four strokes under par on the Tijuana Country Club course, but were only one stroke ahead of five others and two strokes ahead of Jack Kay of Montreal and 11 other men deadlocked at 70.

With gambling sharing inter-est with the golfing results, the bookmakers cut Souchak from 8-1, Weetman from 25-1, Boros from 15-1, and Kennett from 70-1.

Thursday, they paid their backers not too well. Because of the four-way tie, the odds were cut in four on each man. In other words, Weetman, at 25-1 should have paid $32 for a $2 bet. Instead he paid only $13.

Regardless of the pay-off, there was some brilliant golf—especially by Weetman. He had toured the first nine in a disap-pointing 39 when he suddenly caught fire. He birdied the 10th. Then followed with five more birds in a row, before the ball hung on the lip on the 16th hole. He also birdied the 18th for a 29 on the back nine and a new course record. Boros and Sou-chak had 35-33 and Kennett, a 31-year-old former USC golfer, 36-32.

Most of the golfers had trou-ble putting on the bumpy greens but Weetman, who used the regulation 18 putts on the front nine, came home using only 10 putts.

Pop Ivy Seeking Six U.S. Players

EDMONTON (CP)—Frank Ivy, coach of the three-time Grey Cup champion Edmonton Eskimos said this week he is seeking six football players in the United States as insurance for the 1957 Western Interprovincial Football Union season.

The Eskimo head coach, in Ed-monton briefly following a scout-ing trip through the United States told a press conference he wants to sign a centre, two tackles, two halfbacks and a utility backfielder who can quarterback the club if necessary.

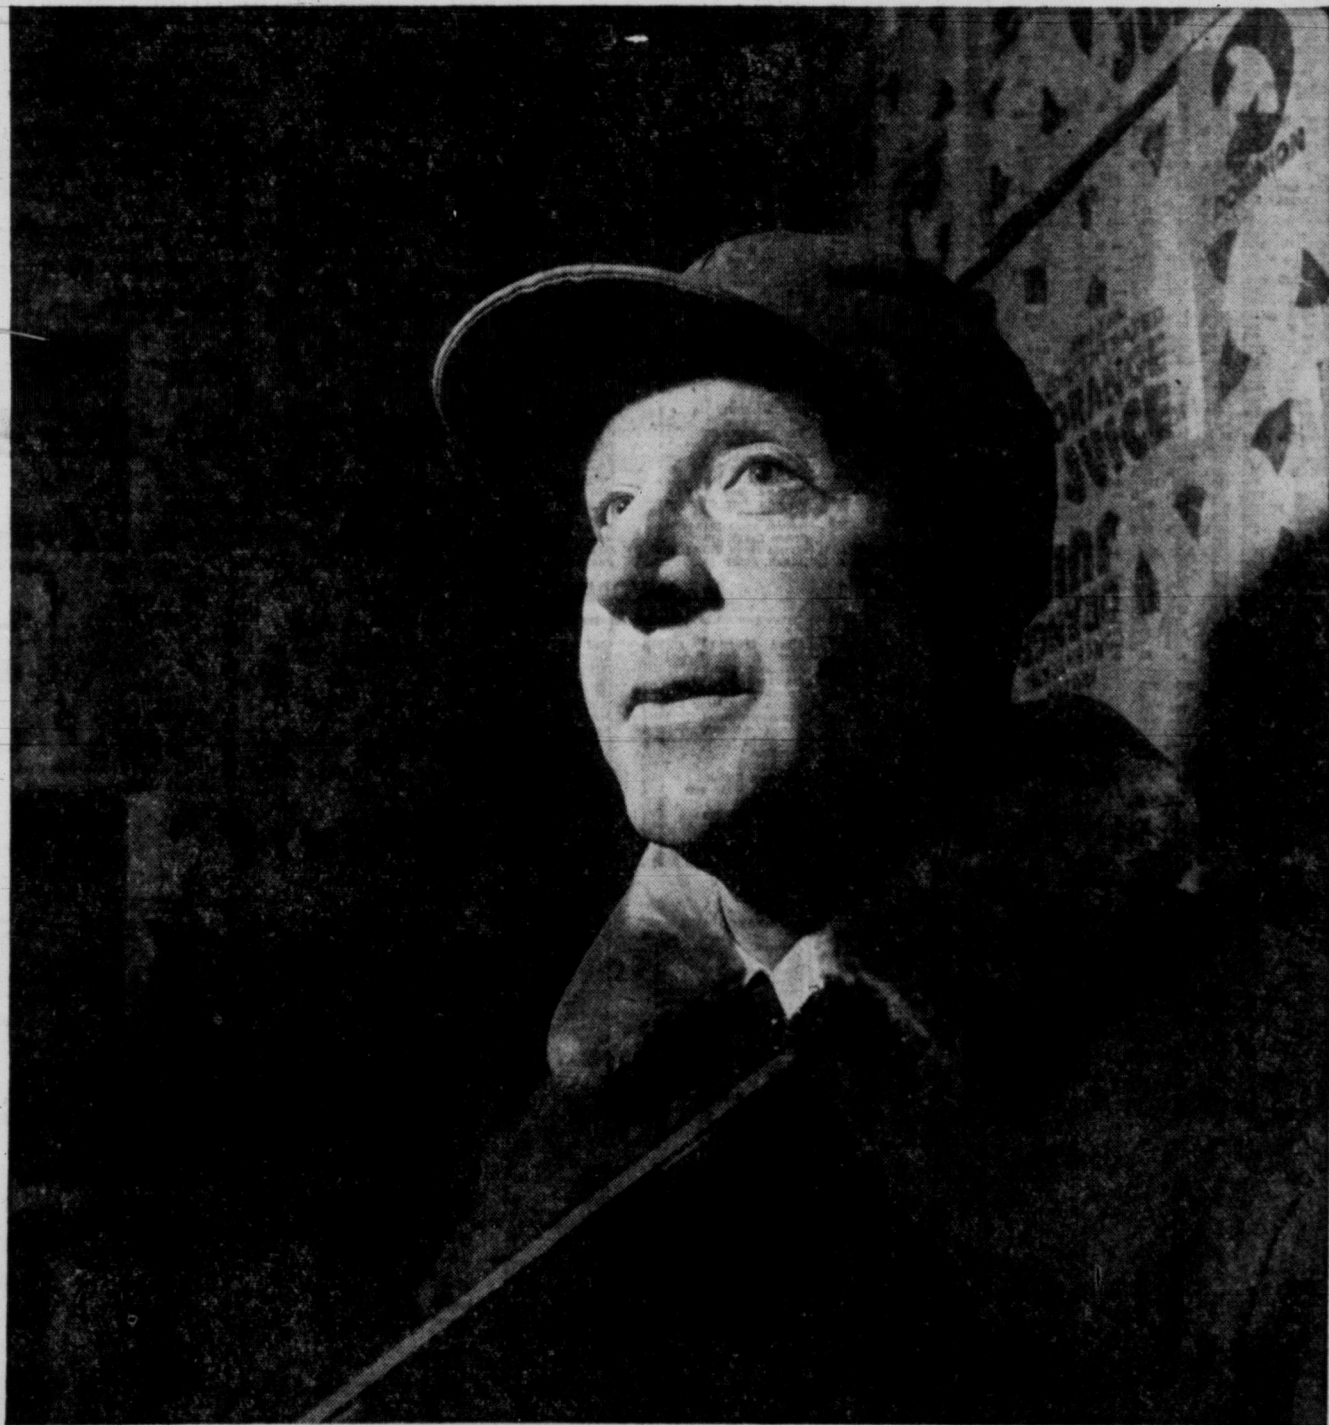

Ivy said the club already has signed three new U.S. players and 11 of the 12 with the club last season are expected back for 1957.

"Frozen foods are revolutionizing daily living," says A. C. Cooper, Manager of the Frozen Foods Warehouse of Dominion Stores Limited. "They not only save the house-wife's time and cut down waste in preparing meals; they also make available all year many tempting fruits and choice meats — and a far wider variety of vegetables and seafood — at the peak of their appetizing freshness."

As a family-man, Mr. Cooper has also benefited by the progress made in another field . . . life insurance.

Today, providing continuing income for your family is only one of the functions of life insurance. The increased flexi-bility of life insurance plans enables you to provide funds for emergencies, your children's education, safeguarding your home, protecting your business . . . and a retirement income for yourself.

Today, too, you'll find your life underwriter better trained than ever to help you shape these flexible insurance plans to meet your family's needs.

In these and other ways, the life insurance companies keep in the vanguard of progress.

A total of over five billion dollars has been invested by the Life Insurance Companies in Canada, on behalf of their policyholders, in homes, roads, utilities, industrial plants and other productive enterprises.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Moderate Advance, Heavy Trading Seen

Selective buying continued on the Toronto stock market today in heavy afternoon trading. The advance was moderate in all sections and was mostly confined to pivotal stocks.

Industrial index has the best gain, a climb of 1 1/2 points. Base metals and western oils were ahead about one-half point.

AT TORONTO uranium drew most of the gains in the mining section.

Pronto was the leader, adding 40 cents. Algom gained 1/2 after being ahead more than a point earlier.

Canadian Prospect had the best western oils gain, up 25 cents. Trading on that stock, however, was light.

Aluminum paced industrials with a 1 1/2-point gain.

AT NEW YORK Bethlehem Steel was down about three at one point after an early gain of more than a point. It was off more than two in late dealings.

Youngstown, an early gainer, was down more than a point, as was U.S. Steel and Republic Steel.

Canadian stocks on the up-trend included Aluminum Ltd., up 1/2, Distillers-Scargill, 1/2, Walker-Gooderham, 1/2, Hudson Bay Mining, ahead 1/2.

Falling off were McIntyre Porcupine, down 1/2, and International Nickel, off 1/2.

Higher Canadian stocks on the American Stock Exchange included Preston East Dome, up 1/2, and Wilfrith Petroleum, up 1/2. Dropping off were Brazilian Traction, down 1/2, Sapphire Petroleum, 1/2, and Scurry-Rainbow Oil, off 1/2.

AT MONTREAL the stock exchange was quietly irregular to change in afternoon dealings. Prices changed ran to a point in both directions.

AT LONDON widespread gains were recorded today on the stock market.

Gilt-edged and industrial issues advanced. Western Canadian Colliery was strong and Bowaters were firm in new prices.

British-American Tobacco rose sharply on reported American buying and talk of a free share issue.

Kaffirs tended to ease. Platinums were firm and coppers eased. Other base metals firmed. Oil shares made a good showing although one or two issues were below the best.

AT VANCOUVER prices dropped slightly on a moderate market. Beaver Lodge sold 3,600 between 31 and 39. Spud Valley sold 11,500 at 14.

BETWEEN TIMES By MONTE ROBERTS

I have been brooding lately about what is wrong with the business life of this modern world.

You must admit there is plenty of room for brooding on this subject. As a matter of fact, for catch-as-catch-can, free-style brooding, there is no better subject than what is wrong with the business life of this modern world.

If one is not careful, one can dissipate all one's brooding strength on this single subject.

To brood properly, it is necessary to concentrate on one (not two or three) on one phase only.

And the phase which I have chosen to concentrate on is the writing of memoranda, more popularly known as memos.

Memos are what the business life of this modern world can best get along without.

Memos are things which executives dictate (if they are big executives) or write on a typewriter (if they are medium-size executives) or write by hand (if they are little executives).

Memos are dictated or typed or written by the various-sized executives to prove to themselves and their employees that they are, indeed, executives.

An executive who could much more profitably employ his time by executing is all too inclined to write memos, instead. Instead of executing, that is, or picking up the laundry, as requested by his wife.

Memos rarely, if ever, accomplish anything, other than to fatten the ego of the executive who dictates, types, or writes same.

But, during recent years, the writing of memos has reached epidemic proportions.

Most offices have large bulletin boards devoted to the posting of memos. The wall space occupied by these bulletin boards could be put to much better use displaying calendar art of the whoo-who-who type.

One business office with which I am acquainted recently installed a memo board, and the first memo on the memo board stated "This board is for memos."

The memo was signed by the president, counter-signed by the managing director, counter-counter signed by the office manager, and all members of the staff were required to initial it, as having been duly read and contents noted.

The point I am trying to make is this: The business world could get along very well without memos. In fact, the business world is in danger of finding itself up to the armpits in memos.

If I were in a position to dictate to all the executives in this modern business world, the first thing I would do would be this:

I would issue a memo forbidding all memos.

Please initial and pass on.

'Quit Cabinet' Sinclair Told By Bennett

Premier Bennett today called for the resignation of federal Fisheries Minister James Sinclair saying that his refusal to retract "a false statement" concerning Lions Gate Bridge tolls had discredited him as the Commons member for North Vancouver.

The premier exploded angrily when told that Mr. Sinclair had refused to retract a statement he made in North Vancouver recently that tolls on the Lions Gate Bridge are being used to subsidize new bridges at Kelowna and Agassiz.

MISLEADING
"If he will not retract, I call on him to resign his portfolio. His statement is utterly without foundation and he stands before the bar of public opinion charged with deliberately trying to mislead the electorate of North Vancouver."

The premier said no revenue surplus from the Lions Gate Bridge is used to finance other bridges. On the contrary, the government was pouring hundreds of thousands of government funds into new bridges.

"Mr. Sinclair's statement is purely destructive. It is designed to throw sand in the gears."

When asked if the Agassiz Bridge is showing a profit, he replied:
"All I can say at the moment is that we are getting revenue from it."

General decline in the use of rural bus lines is forcing reduced service to suburbs in all cities, including Greater Victoria, B.C. Electric traffic supervisor told representatives of Saanich Voters' Association Thursday.

R. H. Hall met with transportation committee from the association and Saanich council in a round-table discussion on commuter service to Gordon Head, Braefoot, Blenkinsop and Cadboro Bay areas.

The council and association committees are expected to have a further meeting next week.

To residents who complain of poor service the company replied rural transportation is a money-losing proposition. "Municipal transportation companies are casualties of prosperous times," said Mr. Hall.

He pointed to statistics showing an automobile for every 3.2 persons, and although application for bus service follows shortly on the heels of a new subdivision opening, few of those who requested the service actually use it.

6 PER CENT DROP
In this area, rural traffic fell by 6 per cent in 1956, he pointed out.

Solutions, which would not be favorable to all of the riding public, include increased fares, reduced service, or shorter routes.

Committee from the association agreed to organize a survey of residents in the affected areas to compare with company surveys. V. H. Clement, chairman of the association committee, commented:

"Although we appreciate the transportation problem as expressed by company representatives we feel the company's assessment has been based on incomplete surveys and we hope to assist in establishing a better factual basis."

Legion Asks Tax Removal

School Books, Clothing Plan

The B.C. cabinet today was asked to amend the Social Services Tax Act to provide total tax exemption on all school books and school supplies.

The request came from a three-man delegation from the B.C. and Northwestern States Command of the Canadian Legion, consisting of A. G. B. Lewis, chairman; R. B. Longridge, Victoria zone commander, and D. MacLennan, provincial secretary.

The delegation also asked for a tax exemption on children's clothing beyond the size covered by exemption.

The present tax exemption for garments extends to size 14x for girls and size 15 for boys. Boys' and girls' shoes up to size 6 are exempted, so are socks for girls up to 9x and for boys up to size 10.

"We feel there are many children of widows and pensioners still in school who require larger sizes by reason of their physical stature," Mr. Lewis told the cabinet.

OTHER REQUESTS
Other requests made to the cabinet were that:

1. Indian veterans who fought for Canada in time of war be given the same privileges on licensed premises of veterans' clubs as are given to all other members.

2. The Hospital Insurance Act be amended to provide that persons who resided in B.C. before enlisting should be considered as fully qualified under the residential regulations of the Hospital Insurance Act without payment of further fees.

Mr. Lewis pointed out that servicemen no longer have to wait one year before becoming eligible for hospital insurance coverage for their dependents, but can qualify within 21 days after arrival in B.C. on payment of a fee not exceeding $20.

"But this does not cover the problem of the B.C. serviceman who may be transferred out of this province and on his return and discharge must still reside for a period of one year before being considered eligible for coverage. This applies even though his family may have resided here during his absence."

Rural Bus Service Cut Discussed

General decline in the use of rural bus lines is forcing reduced service to suburbs in all cities, including Greater Victoria, B.C. Electric traffic supervisor told representatives of Saanich Voters' Association Thursday.

R. H. Hall met with transportation committee from the association and Saanich council in a round-table discussion on commuter service to Gordon Head, Braefoot, Blenkinsop and Cadboro Bay areas.

CASHIER TELLS HER STORY

Gunman Was No Louie, the Hood

By DINAH KERR

Looking back, even Freddie had to agree the armed robbery of the City Hall Thursday noon was like something out of a comic opera.

The "badman" had a round, fresh face, soft voice, non-descript nose and eyes, and "wasn't very masculine looking." His chin wasn't far from the counter-top—he'd be about five feet six inches. All in all, he was no Louie the Hood.

A girl of discriminating taste, Freddie Scherbaum, on the other side of the cashier's counter, classified him as "not good—not bad."

On the other hand Freddie was a rather disconcerting hold-up victim. How many girls would feel qualms about short-changing a thief? And when the robber snarled, "Now yoh be quiet and don't move," would you have replied, "Well, I hope I can. I don't feel very well?"

As a matter of fact, Freddie and the baby-faced bandit did everything but have tea and crumpets while they negotiated the deal.

Gun Pointed for 2 Long Minutes

But the drama of the situation was saved by a long bluish-grey gun which was pointed steadily at the relief cashier for two long minutes.

Freddie told her story Thursday night at home, 2814 Parkview, surrounded by her brother, Fred; his wife and her mother, Mrs. Carla Proksch. She was still pretty shaky. "If it had been a smaller gun it wouldn't have been so bad," she said.

Here's her account of the holdup:

"I was sorting through my mail when I heard a customer coming. I didn't have enough time to look up completely because something was shoved through the window. It was a newspaper folded in from both sides.

"While I was looking, it opened and a gun was pointing at me.

"Ohhhh, I made—like this."

Freddie demonstrated with a hoarse, whispered cry.

"My mind just went dead. He must have realized I couldn't speak, so he helped me out.

"You be quiet and don't waste any more time," he said. "And put all the bills you have on top."

"You see it was pretty smart. He had his hand always on the handle of the gun, but it was just lying on the newspaper.

"I thought I'd better reach first for the 20s. About 15 minutes ago, I had counted them—I had 40—so I put about half on the newspaper, with some 10s.

'You Be Quiet and Don't Move'

"Then I figured maybe I hadn't given him enough and he'd be back, so I thought I'd give him some fives. I had about 10 or 12. I took them out and gave him those.

"I had a bunch of twos and I couldn't decide if that was enough. I was waiting for his command.

"I looked at him and we seemed to agree that it was enough.

"Now you be quiet and don't move," he said.

"Go on," Fred interrupted. "Tell them what you answered.

Freddie blushed. "I said, 'Well, I hope I can. I don't feel very well.'"

"He wrapped the money up and gave me a firm look, like this"—she grimaced firmly over one shoulder—"Then he started walking away."

Freddie waved her arms wildly overhead to attract attention, then graded the glass of her cashier's cage. Finally, while the thief was still in the hallway, she shouted, "I was robbed!"

Freddie and her fellow employees gave chase but the bandit, who appeared to be familiar with the City Hall, escaped—probably through a side door leading to Pandora.

As he left the office, Freddie took careful note of his dress. He was wearing a beige colored macinaw with large rectangles outlined in brown, his hat was grey or green and his trousers a grey tone.

'I'd Know Him if I Saw Him'

"I have the impression that if I could see him, I would know him," she said.

For Freddie—her real name is Fredericka—the experience was not as terrifying as the time in 1945 when she was expelled from Czechoslovakia with her family and 3,500,000 other Germans.

According to the Potsdam Agreement, all Germans had to return to their own country immediately. The refugees marched 40 miles to the German border, where they were searched by armed guards and removed of everything but the clothes they wore.

"Being a refugee was much worse than being robbed," said Freddie. "That lasted—this was just a moment."

The Scherbaum family settled in Heidelberg, where Mrs. Proksch and Freddie, both trained pharmacists, somehow scraped up enough money to open another shop. They came to Canada in 1952.

Teachers Get 5.4% Wage Hike

Part of Increase Now, Rest Paid in September

Greater Victoria's 648 teachers have been granted a 5.45 per cent wage increase totalling $151,120, it was announced today.

School board finance chairman Kenneth Leeming said settlement with Greater Victoria Teachers' Association means salary increases ranging from $150 to $360 annually.

The increase represents a boost in costs to Greater Victoria municipalities of just under the equivalent of one mill.

Salaries will now range from $2,200 to $6,420 depending on the qualifications held by the teacher.

New increments will be granted in two salary boosts, one effective this month and another in September. This is presumed to be aimed at discouraging teachers from leaving their jobs in summer vacation months.

ONE-YEAR CONTRACT

The new contract extends for one year. Negotiations began last October when teachers presented a request for salary increases totalling $320,000.

Mr. Leeming said factors affecting the settlement were a 3.09 per cent increase in living costs according to the consumer price index, and the need to stimulate recruitment of teachers. He said he would appreciate meetings with municipal councils to outline the negotiations at the time the school board budget is presented.

B.C. School Trustees' Association has endorsed a pattern of raised salaries in order to bring more and a better quality of teachers into the profession here.

Although Victoria is the first metropolitan area to conclude its negotiations, several smaller areas have reached agreement already—most of them receiving a higher percentage increase.

Mr. Leeming informed the school board that Creston school salaries are up 5.06 per cent, Powell River 6.5, Peace River South 6.5, Peace River North 8.6, Prince Rupert 16 per cent and Enderby 9.7 per cent.

Chairman of the GVTA salary committee, Thomas Curteis, said he felt the new scale would mean teachers would be paid for their earned qualifications regardless of the class level they are teaching.

"We have been pleased with the tenor of negotiations this year," said Mr. Curteis. "We appreciate the recognition by the school board of the ever-increasing teacher shortage."

"We are competing with better paying professions in industry for graduates and have not been faring too well of late."

"Taxpayers must be concerned about the tax dollar but they must also be concerned about the quality of teachers instructing our youngsters."

10% Wage Boost Turned Down In Vancouver

Elementary school teachers in Vancouver spurned a 10 per cent increase in salary offered by the Vancouver school board Thursday night but they shelved a plan to resign to enforce their wage demands.

Under the tabled plan, some 1,200 teachers would have requested help from the British Columbia Teachers' Federation, then resigned en masse to back their demands.

A spokesman for the teachers said today that the board's offer was not satisfactory but that teachers are still willing to negotiate.

The resignation plan will be brought up again if negotiations fail.

Chamber Endorses Mt. Tolmie Plan

A resolution requesting the Capital Improvement District Commission to allocate funds for the development of Mount Tolmie Park, was unanimously endorsed by a Chamber of Commerce directors' meeting at the Empress Hotel today.

The Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee, which is developing the Mount Tolmie summit park, is in need of funds to build a sidewalk, black top a parking area and for landscaping. Sam Lane, chairman of the tourist group, told the meeting.

Ocean Probers Interested In 'Anything Scientific'

Men and women whose profession is to probe the mysteries of the ocean depths are meeting at Esquimalt today and Saturday to exchange ideas, and plan a cycle of controlled studies.

The profession: oceanography, which can best be defined as sea-going science.

Attending the two-day conference are 50 sea scientists, members of the Pacific Northwest Oceanographers.

An annual affair, this is the first time the conference has been held on Vancouver Island. Host for the meeting is the Pacific Naval Laboratory, operating under the federal defence research board, with headquarters at HMC Dockyard.

Dr. W. L. Ford, superintendent of the PNL, describes the work of oceanographers as "interest in anything scientific to do with the sea—be it chemical, physical or biological."

It's the Perfect Weather For Tasty Home-Made Soup

By PENNY SAVER

Frosty mornings, nippy afternoons and cold evenings add up to one thing in our house... home made soup! Made from good meat stock, the soup can be made with almost anything and everything, and usually is. Vegetables, noodles, spices and a touch of imagination, to taste... that's what you need for this meal starter. It can be the meal itself for lunch or early dinner, for it's chock full of goodness and energy-filled foods.

What vegetables do you like best in your soup? Of course, carrots are a must, for they give it a tempting color as well as a good taste. Bulk carrots are two pounds for a quarter, and two bunches cost 29 cents.

Parsnips, ground or grated in the soup are tasty, and cost 39 cents for two pounds. For a touch of sweetness, turnips are four pounds for a quarter. Celery is a little higher now, from 29 to 39 cents each. For a thicker soup, add barley, noodles and such, and another appetizing touch is a tin of tomatoes.

If, after a bowl (or two) of this delicious soup, you're still ready to eat a hearty meal, then you'll like some sprouts, green and leafy that are, selling at two pounds for 45 cents. Green peas are the same price, and broccoli is 20 cents a pound.

Green onions for salads or to be chopped fine and whipped with your potatoes, are 12 cents a bunch. Green beans are 39 cents a pound, and green cabbage is 33 cents for three pounds. Red onions, a pleasant change in vegetables, are two pounds for 23 cents. Large heads of lettuce are 25 cents.

Rhubarb for really good-tasting desserts, in pies or puddings, is 29 cents. It's hot-house variety, and very good. Pineapples, ripe and sweet, are 39 cents each. This is another favorite food, wonderful with main or dessert course.

About throwing a bridal bouquet:

My wedding reception will take place in a one-storey ranch house. How can I throw my bouquet under these circumstances where there is no stairway? Please don't laugh. To me, this is a very lovely and important bridal custom, and I feel sure you can find a solution.

Louise Davis answers: The only thing you can do is to make the best of it. You can be sure that there have been many other brides whose receptions were held in ranch-type houses, and there will be many more to come. Changes in architecture and in our mode of life must bring necessary compromises. Throwing a bouquet is fun, but it is a frivolous tradition and relatively unimportant. The only alternative I can dream up is to stand back and toss (not throw) your bouquet, making sure that the crowd of young people is far enough back to

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By FREEMAN KING

Gorge Vale Park—Akela Edna Rankine Invested Robin Goddard and Ricky Brown as Wolf Cubs at the regular meeting Wednesday. Arnold Smith, RCN, was introduced to the boys as the assistant leader for the pack.

Patrol System—Baden-Powell said that the patrol system is merely putting your boys into permanent gangs under the leadership of one of their members, which is their natural organization, whether bent on mischief or amusement. It does not particularly matter if the patrol has four or six boys in it; leave it to the natural group that run together and can play together. For it is the patrol that is the unit that should be worked with.

Give your patrol leaders a chance to do things themselves and they will not let you down.

Windsor Park Troop—Luxton Scout Troop paid a visit to the Windsor Park Troop at their regular meeting on Wednesday evening, two patrols and two leaders attending. Competitions between the troops were run off.

The Windsor Park Scouts have accepted the challenge of the Fairfield boys to a cross-country compass run. It is proposed to hold the event Jan. 27.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prize? Then Ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe. Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Tim Sturdivant, aged nine, Matador, Texas, for his question:

How Do Snakes Crawl?

Draw a picture of a snake crawling along the ground. Did you make his graceful curves go up and down in hills and valleys? If so, you will have to draw Mr. Snake all over again. For his curves move from side to side. Almost all snakes travel with their tumblers touching the ground from head to tail. The sidewinder lifts up his loops a little, but not much, from the ground. But no snake travels by turning himself into hills and valleys.

As you watch a snake, crawling looks easy. You forget he has no feet, no arms or legs to help him along. But not only can he crawl, chances are he can swim and also climb a tree. He even may know more than one way to crawl along the ground.

To crawl, a snake must wave the long, supple backbone that runs from his head to his tail. Countless pairs of ribs are fixed to that backbone. They loop around and under his body like a tube-shaped cage. As he makes each curve, the ribs close up on one side and spread apart on the opposite side. There are muscles fixed to all these bones and also to the skin. To slither through a curve, the snake stretches the muscles along one side and shrinks them up short on the other. This is the most popular way for a snake to crawl. He moves along making wavy curves from his head to his tail.

The worst problem Mr. Snake has is to keep a grip on the ground. His skin is criss-crossed in little grooves which help. But over a sheet of glass he slips and slides, making no progress at all. Lucky for him there are no sheets of glass on the ground outdoors. In the wild, he can find plenty of solid pegs to keep him from slipping and help him along. He pushes his curves against the grasses, brush, stones, sticks and rough ground.

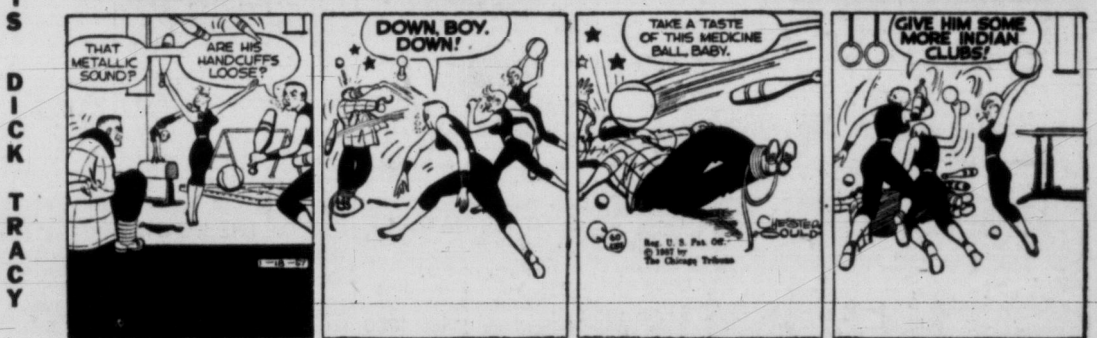

Sand is about the hardest surface for a snake in the wild to cross. Often the sand is not firm enough for the curves to press against. ## Flew Non-Stop 24,352 Miles At 525 MPH

(UP and AP Dispatches)

MARCH AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. — Three B-52 Stratofortresses, America's inter-continental hydrogen bomb carriers, today completed the first non-stop jet flight around the world.

The mammoth planes, refueling in the air, made the historic 24,352-mile flight in the unofficial time of 45 hours, 19 minutes.

This was less than half the 94 hours, one minute required by Lucky Lady II, on the first non-stop globe-girdling journey in 1931.

The planes flew at an average speed of 525 miles an hour. The flight left Castle Air Force Base, Calif., at about 1 p.m. Jan. 16. They landed here at 10:19 a.m. today.

The air force said a fourth plane, following a previously prepared plan, left the formation over Africa and landed in Britain "on schedule."

The big eight-jet bombers were refueled three times in flight by tanker planes.

The route took the bombers, commanded by Major-General Archie J. Old Jr., across the United States to Newfoundland, over the Atlantic to French Morocco; over the city of Dhahran in Saudi Arabia; along the coasts of India and Ceylon; near the Malay peninsula; over the Philippines and Guam before heading over the eastern Pacific area.

Some of the refuelings were at night and some in bad weather, according to air force spokesman Maj. Jack Steffensen, "but this failed to hamper the tanker operation."

'Bought Just For the Job' Says Blackstock

By PETER MURRAY

A hat and a jacket, worn by the noon-hour bandit who took $965 from a City Hall cashier at gunpoint Thursday, gave police their only new lead today in the smoothly-executed robbery.

The clothing was found in the Lake Hill district at 12:30 p.m., about 10 minutes after the robbery.

Police were not notified of the discovery until five hours later, however.

On Roadway

A man, not identified by police, saw them lying on the roadway as he was driving back to work from his home nearby. He reported his find to Saanich police at 5 p.m., after learning of the robbery.

A woodsman's-type jacket, with beige squares and brown stripes, was found a short distance away from a grey fedora hat.

Chief Blackstock said they had been identified positively as the clothing worn by the bandit. Later investigation by city detectives disclosed that the hat and coat had been purchased in a city department store a short time before the hold-up.

"They were bought just for the job," Chief Blackstock said.

Thrown From Car

It was indicated the bandit threw the clothing from a car as he drove along Saanich Road after fleeing from City Hall.

It was not known Thursday whether the man, described as between 35 and 40, medium build, had a get-away car. He was last seen striding down a hallway toward the Pandora Street entrance of City Hall.

SHE WARN'T NO PISTOL-PACKIN' MAMA

For a moment at City Hall this morning employees thought it had happened again.

Miss Freddie Scherbaum, victim of a 1965 holdup man Thursday, was back in the cashier's cage when a woman approached. She laid a heavy silver purse on the counter with a bang.

Miss Scherbaum threw her hands into the air with a scream. When order was restored and the woman had paid her water bill, Miss Scherbaum went home for the day.

New UN Mid-East Plan Supported by Canada

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Canada today backed the latest Middle East resolution in the United Nations General Assembly, but called for further efforts for a long-term settlement.

External Affairs Minister Pearson, making his first UN speech since his return from Ottawa, said Canada will support the African-Asian resolution, supported by the United States and Russia, calling for a reaffirmation of previous ones which had ordered a withdrawal from the disputed areas invaded by Israel last October.

The last time U.S. and Russia agreed was in November on the cease-fire in Egypt.

But he left no doubt that the resolution itself would not be enough.

He urged the assembly to give "urgent consideration" to measures to prevent the Gaza Strip against Egypt.

Man Without Country Wins Board Hearing

(See Page 26)

VANCOUVER (CP)—Christian Hanna, 23-year-old stow-away and man without a country, was refused a writ of habeas corpus in Supreme Court today.

But the slight, swarthy migrant did win a hearing before an immigration board, set for later today.

Mr. Justice J. V. Cline rejected the appeal for a writ after Vancouver lawyer Donald S. White obtained an order to have Hanna released from the Norwegian freighter Gudveig, aboard which he had been imprisoned for 15 months.

Hanna was released from the ship, docked at Port Alberni, Thursday and escorted to Vancouver by the 26-year-old lawyer who has taken up the refugee's case.

Ontario Said Ready To Enter Health Plan

Time Ottawa Correspondent
OTTAWA—Expectations are strong within government circles here that the province of Ontario within a short period will declare itself "in" on the federal government's national hospitalization insurance plan.

Negotiations are continuing between the federal government and Premier Leslie Frost's administration and it is believed that difficulties standing in the way of the Ontario government's participation may soon be surmounted.

The Ontario government is expected in the Throne Speech at the opening of the Ontario legislative assembly session at the end of this month to declare its readiness to enter into a hospitalization insurance plan with Ottawa. But it will add the rider that certain modifications must be made in the federal plan.

An exchange of views between the federal and Ontario provincial authorities are underway presumably aimed at bringing about the desired modifications. They may result in Hon. Paul Martin, minister of national health, being placed in a position where he can make an early announcement involving the provinces.

Cadboro Bay, Oak Bay Merger Wrong, Says Ash

It is a fallacy for Cadboro Bay residents to think they would gain by seceding from Saanich to join Oak Bay, Saanich Reeve Arthur Ash said today.

The logical municipality for them to join is the city of Victoria, he pointed out—being the largest in the area and centre of the metropolitan area to which it will one day lend its name—the city of Greater Victoria.

Reports circulated recently claim a movement in the "Bay area to revive interest in secession, rejected by Oak Bay in 1950.

The discussion apparently lacks direction, planning and organization even though a number of people in Cadboro Bay have indicated favor of the proposal.

"I don't think there is a definite agitation," said Arnold Edmonds, secretary-treasurer of the Cadboro Bay Ratepayers' Association.

JOIN UP
"General opinion seems to be rather than the higgledy-piggledy mess of four or five municipalities it might be better to join up."

He agreed there is merit in the idea of Cadboro Bay becoming part of Oak Bay, but felt "if such a thing did occur it would probably have to be done by areas, such as the Panhandle."

"I don't think the effort has the enthusiasm it had in 1950," when referendums were held in Saanich and Oak Bay.

Mr. Edmonds took the stand that residents prefer to stay with "the devil they know rather than take on a new one."

He said he felt in a position to gauge opinion of residents in the "Bay area better than other, non-committal spokesmen since he is an executive member of the ratepayers' association.

Reeve Ash said: "If people think they're going to get more from Oak Bay than from Saanich, it's a fallacy. They'd get their roads and sewers and so on in time, but it would be by local improvement and they can get that in Saanich."

Mr. Martin told the Commons earlier this week that he hoped that "before too many days are out we shall perhaps be able to make further observations on the possible implementation of the federal scheme."

Fleeing Car Hits Another; One Killed

BURNABY, B.C. (CP)—One man was killed and four others were taken to hospital following a collision here early today between two cars, one fleeing from an RCMP patrol car.

Dead is Bill Williams, 31, who was thrown nearly 125 feet by the impact.

In Royal Columbian Hospital are the driver of the fleeing car, suffering possible head injuries and shock; Donald Stewart, 43, of Surrey, left ankle injuries and shock; Walter Perry, 34, of Ladner, fractured left leg, bruises and shock; Raymond Loehndorf, 30, of Surrey, chest, upper arm, and right shoulder injuries.

Williams, Stewart, Perry and Loehndorf were on their way home from work when the accident occurred.

Police estimated the car they were chasing was travelling at 30 miles an hour, or faster, when it collided with the other vehicle which was attempting a left turn.

and the Gulf of Aqaba from developing once more into trouble spots.

Pearson suggested that the UN Emergency Force might station units in these areas until permanent measures can be worked out to ensure that no border raids are carried out and that free shippings are maintained in the gulf, which Israel claims would be menaced by Egypt.

The Canadian minister emphasized to the delegates that the new withdrawal resolution would be useless if it led only to "a withdrawal ... to the old state of affairs."

"Surely there must be no return to the conditions—if we can avoid it—which helped to provoke the initial military action," he said.

Winds, Snow Still Ripping Deserted Ferry

PORT AUX-BASQUES, Nfld.—The 51 passengers and crew hidden from sight by swirling snow. A skeleton crew was to be put aboard today.

(CP)—The Newfoundland ferry Cabot Strait lay listing, damaged and crewless on a sand bar six miles west of here today, ashore Thursday night. They were rescued in dories through rolling surf. Capt. Edward O'Keefe and the last of his crew came off just before nightfall.

Through the night a watching party kept an eye on the ship from shore, about 100 yards distant. But the ferry, iced from topmast to waterline, was often pondered the prospect of salvaging mail and other cargo and the ship herself if the weather and sea are kind.

WOMEN'S PLAYDOWNS

Duncan, Nanaimo Lead in Curling

DUNCAN—Defending champion Marg Fuller of Nanaimo and a Duncan rink skipped by Beulah Gilday are leading in playdowns for the right to represent Vancouver Island in the provincial women's curling final.

Both rinks started today's play in the zone playoffs with four straight victories in the round-robin series.

Only other rink with a chance to grab the Island championship is the Nanaimo quartet skipped by Minnie Holm, which has scored two victories in three games.

Victoria rinks have fared poorly in opening games of the playdown. Ann Langley has posted one win in three tries while Mary Beattie and Mary McKay have failed to win in three and four games respectively.

Seven rinks are contesting the Island playdown. Three are from Victoria and Duncan and Nanaimo each have two entries. Port Alberni is not represented.

Thursday's results:

Beulah Gilday, Duncan, 4
Marg Fuller, Nanaimo, 4
Minnie Holm, Nanaimo, 1
Ann Langley, Victoria, 1
Fannie Berkey, Duncan, 1

Vancouver Men Get Two Years On Theft Counts

SIDNEY—Wilfred Ernest Coull, 31, and Albert John Alexander, 25, of Vancouver, were sentenced here Thursday to prison terms of two years for theft and other charges. They are the same two men arrested at Sarita River by loggers, and sentenced in Port Alberni to two and one-half years, respectively. Although terms imposed here actually totalled 2½ years, they will be served concurrently, and will mean two years imprisonment in addition to the Port Alberni terms.

They pleaded guilty to five joint charges of theft of an outboard motor from Van Isle Marina, theft of a gas stove from a boat owned by Levi Wilson of Sidney, theft of articles from a boat owned by Marvin Eckert of Sidney, theft of an outboard motor from Ellis Yarwood, and breaking and entering Extension Lumber Co. property at Nanaimo.

Alexander was charged individually with theft of a power saw from Henry Ruckie, Salt Spring Island. Coull was charged with theft of a boat in Nanaimo, and with passing a bad cheque for $81.70 at Royston.

... JETS PM Refuses To Be Drawn Out On Rumored Hike in Pensions

About 30 relatives and dependents of the crew members were on hand at the field to greet them.

"When I learned of the flight I thought it was wonderful that my husband was able to participate in such a historic event," said Mrs. Mary Dzielinski, wife of Maj. Anthony Dzielinski, radar operator.

Mrs. Marilyn Wooten, wife of Maj. Albert Wooten, navigator-observer, said "I had no idea why I was coming here except to meet my husband. The Air Force notified me Thursday only that he was coming in to complete a mission."

Most details of the B-52 bomber are classified for security purposes.

Its main dimensions are: wing span, 185 feet; length, 156 feet 6 inches; height over tail, 48 feet 3½ inches.

Its loaded weight is 350,000 pounds. Maximum speed is given as "over 600 miles an hour" and its service ceiling as 50,000 feet.

It was in 1872 that people first started thinking about writing about and getting about the globe.

Jules Verne, French novelist, in 1872 described an imaginary trip by Phileas Fogg in "Around the World in 80 Days." In 1889, New York newspaperwoman Nellie Bly completed the first actual trip in 72 days. In 1890 George Francis Train of New York completed the journey in 67 days.

By 1913 John Henry Mears had reduced the time to 35 days. Airplanes first got into the act in 1924, a U.S. army biplane completing the trip in 17½ days (14 days 15 hours actual flying time).

In 1931 Wiley Post piloted a monoplane "Winnie Mae" around the northern air circumference of the world (15,474 miles) in 8 days, 15 hours, 51 minutes.

First non-stop round-the-world trip was made in 1949 when the Boeing B-50 superfortress flew 23,452 miles in 94 hours, 1 minute.

POWDER PLANT BLAST NEAR OLYMPIA KILLS 6

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP)—Six persons were killed and four injured Friday in an explosion at the Pacific Powder Company plant at Tenino, south of here.

Sheriff Clarence D. Van Allen said a dozen buildings were either damaged or leveled by the blast. The explosion rattled windows in Olympia, nine miles away from the plant.

Royal Bank of Canada directly across the street from City Hall Jan. 7.

Leonard Wilson, 29, of Duncan, who has confessed the robbery, took $1,340 from a cashier and was not seen after he left the bank doors. He was captured in Seattle the next day after a tip from a TCA passenger agent at Pat Bay Airport. He is in custody awaiting sentence.

City police followed up all leads and tips in Thursday's holdup.

Men Questioned

A number of men wearing jackets similar to the one on the bandit described by cashier Fredericka Scherbaum were stopped on the street and questioned.

Miss Scherbaum and another office employee who saw the bandit, Linda Barker, 1325 Kings Road, were driven to a number of spots in the downtown area by detectives to identify men who had been stopped.

All were released on the spot and no one was brought to the police station for questioning.

Detectives made a search through a downtown theatre during the afternoon after a report that a man answering the bandit's description had gone in not long after the hold-up. The report proved unfounded.

Depots Checked

Plainclothesmen also checked Vancouver Island Coach Lines depot, the CPR dock, hotels, rooming houses and beer parlors.

The RCMP was detailed to keep watch on Pat Bay Airport. RCMP plainclothesmen also joined in the investigation.

Police said the description of the bandit's gun given by Miss Scherbaum was similar to a .38 blue steel target pistol.

It was revealed also that police were hindered by a delay in sounding the alarm from City Hall.

The telephone call from relief operator on the City Hall switchboard went to Chief Blackstock's office where it was taken by typist Suzanne Butrey.

The operator said only that some money had been taken from the till.

Miss Butrey relayed the information to the police charge office down the hall.

The sum of $965, taken in the hold-up, was turned over to the City Hall treasury today by the Fidelity Insurance Co. of Canada.

The high-speed negotiations were handled by Ker and Stephenson officials James Cleland and A. H. Fitzgerald.

Top Forestry Instructor Retiring

James Alexander Pedley is retiring at the end of January after 31 years in the B.C. Forest Service.

He entered the service in March, 1926, as a patrolman at Babine Lake and in 1927 was appointed assistant ranger at Francois Lake. The following year he was made ranger for the district.

In 1933 he was transferred to Prince Rupert and subsequently to the Revelstoke ranger district. He was promoted to fire inspector in the Kamloops district in 1937 and two years later was made supervisor of fire protection in the Vancouver district.

In 1945 he was transferred to the newly-established forest service ranger school at Green Timbers

as instructor and assistant to the forester-in-charge of the school. Later he served as special instructor in forest protection at the Faculty of Forestry, University of British Columbia.

He assumed charge of the ranger school in 1952 and remained there until 1955, when he undertook revision of the forest service operations manual.
